Flooded Manitoba Town Morris Fully Evacuated

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Red River chalked up more victories today in its flood battle against Manitoba.

Two special Canadian National Railway trains reached here early this morning to complete the virtual evacuation of the town of Morris, 41 miles south. Mayor Harry Shewman of Morris said he had decided on evacuation "to spare my people further misery."

In Winnipeg, waiting nervously for the lash of the Red's flood crest, City Engineer W. D. Hurst appealed to householders to use as little water as possible to relieve overloading of sewers. Steam heat service to part of Winnipeg has been cut because of the floods.

Morris, normally a town of 1,100 population, only has 150 men and 10 women who remained behind. Mayor Shewman said more than 90 inches of water swirled through parts of the town—32 inches more than at the peak in the bad floods of 1948.

British Columbia became the third province to offer assistance to Manitoba in the flood crisis. Premier Byron Johnson telephoned Premier Douglas Campbell of Manitoba to advise that the west-coast province is prepared to do anything possible to assist flood victims. Saskatchewan and Ontario already had made similar offers.

Said Mr. Campbell: "While we appreciate very much the good wishes of the other provinces, it would be foolish to ask assistance from them for work which Manitoba is able to do for herself. Manitoba has been organized to meet this flood for weeks and four departments of government are co-operating to the fullest extent."

First evacuation train from Morris reached here at 2:50 a.m. C.D.T. with about 35 persons in two coaches. A four-car train followed 15 minutes behind bearing another 133 Morris residents. On this second train were hospital patients, the hospital staff of 20, soldiers and railway workers.

Day Under Reds Fatal To Mayor

MOSINEE, Wis. (UP)—Mosinee mourned its dying Mayor Ralph Kronenwetter today as the "first victim of the cold war."

The mayor suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Monday night just as his town was to be liberated from "Communist invaders" who seized it in a one-day "Soviet revolution" in a dramatic demonstration of life under Communist rule.

St. Mary's Hospital authorities at nearby Wausau said Kronenwetter had "very little chance of survival" as he lay unconscious under an oxygen tent.

They said "it's pretty much a matter of time" until he dies.

The mayor was stricken just as he was about to mount the speakers' platform for a rousing Americanism rally climaxing the day of "Communist domination."

Almost all of Mosinee's 2,200 residents were on hand to hear the speeches and sing patriotic songs when the mayor was stricken.

U.A.W. Turning Sights On G.M. For New Drive

DETROIT (UP)—The C.I.O. United Auto Workers, hailing the Chrysler settlement as "a complete victory," turned their sights today on General Motors, giant of the industry.

The union's national Chrysler conference "overwhelmingly" approved the agreement Thursday night. A U.A.W. spokesman said only six of the approximately 100 delegates voted against ratification.

The acceptance is considered certain when Chrysler's 89,000 striking production employees vote in a secret ballot tomorrow.

U.A.W. president Walter P. Reuther said "we are hopeful we will find a peaceful way to a G.M. settlement."

"But if there isn't any choice, we will fight," he said.

BITTER TALKS

Bargaining with the world's greatest automaker was shoved into the background during the bitter negotiations to settle the 100-day Chrysler strike. The union seeks $125 monthly pensions, $25 more than it won from Chrysler and Ford for its 285,000 G.M. members. The pensions include social security payments, as provided in agreements with the other members of the industry's "big three." The U.A.W.-G.M. contract expires May 28.

The Chrysler walkout cost an estimated total of $1,327,000,000. Its cost and length were second only to the 113-day G.M. strike of 1946-47.

The strike cost Chrysler almost 500,000 cars and trucks during a period when sales of other automakers were climbing to new highs. Each striker lost almost $1,000 in wages. The walkout also idled 55,000 non-strikers in the corporation's supplier firms.

No Big Turnover In Britain Seen

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

LONDON (UP)—British Conservatives will only unseat the Labor government with aid from the Liberal Party, but even then the Conservative majority in the Commons will be as small as that of the Laborites today.

This reporter believes (after a two-week visit to the United Kingdom) that if Winston Churchill can succeed in his present strategy of a coalition between the Conservatives and the Liberals he can convert the present slim Labor majority into a majority for himself whenever a general election is called.

But that Conservative majority will be as narrow as that of the Laborites and equally unsatisfactory for purposes of effective government.

These conclusions were reached after considering all evidence available here to the outside political observer; gleaned from politically experienced and unbiased sources.

Veteran observers here assert the British electorate has "jelled" into two parties of nearly equal strength and that a really decisive victory by either of them is not in the cards under present conditions.

MAJOR MISTAKE

In other words, the price of real power by either party is said to be some major mistake by its opponent which will provoke public feeling against it.

The visiting observer is told to avoid picturing the current nip-and-tuck battle between the Laborites and the Conservatives as a carefully balanced contest, with the scales only to tip decisively towards either contestant as a result of any move which the other make. Instead they advise a more accurate picture is that of a solidly frozen pattern which will only crack to some major shock.

Weather Forecast

Sunny today and clear Saturday; continuing cool. Winds southwest 20 m.p.h. decreasing to light tonight. Low tonight 40, high Saturday 52.

1,500,000 Germans Not Yet Freed By Russians

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer charged today that 1,500,000 Germans are still missing in the Soviet Union. He demanded, in the name of humanity, that the Kremlin account for their fate.

Adenauer made a special appearance before the West German Parliament at Bonn after he learned of Thursday night's Soviet announcement that repatriation of German war prisoners had been completed.

The Soviet statement dashed the hopes of families of hundreds of thousands of missing soldiers, it came as a great shock to the West German capital. Many politicians viewed it as a severe blow to the Communist Party in the west. When a Communist deputy got up to answer Adenauer virtually the entire body of lawmakers with the exception of three Communist deputies present and three others walked out.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the last group of war prisoners—17,538 of them—had been returned to Germany.

But Adenauer told Parliament that German figures show about 1,500,000 Germans are still left inside Russia. He added:

"These terrible figures must be cleared up. This is an appeal to the humanity of all peoples."

Denmark May Join In Chorus Of Complaints

AP and UP DISPATCHES

The United States today charged Russia with flouting its international obligations in dealing with the Baltic plane incident.

In a new note to Moscow, the State Department said Russia had put forward an "erroneous account" of the shooting down of the American plane with its crew of 10 April 8.

The note said:

"The government of the United States must warn the government of the Soviet Socialist Republics of the seriousness with which it regards the attitude of the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in matters of such grave consequence."

SWEDEN AROUSED

Meanwhile in Stockholm today government quarters said Sweden will protest to Russia against the seizure and surveillance of Swedish fishing vessels in the Baltic Sea area.

The Swedish sources said a stiffly-worded note will be delivered to the Kremlin within a few days.

It was believed Denmark might also send a protest. Four Danish fishing vessels have been missing off the Russian-held Baltic coast since April 28.

HELD 13 DAYS

The Swedish note will protest the seizure on Feb. 20 of the two vessels Larex and Marion. They were taken into custody by Russian warships 30 miles off the Polish coast, escorted into Naukueren and held for 13 days.

Two weeks ago the Larex again was fishing off the Baltic coast when a Russian mine sweeper hove into sight. The captain of the Larex abandoned his nets and fled for Sweden at top speed. The Russian ship chased him to the Swedish coast, sometimes coming within 50 yards.

The Scandinavian Foreign Ministers met in Stockholm March 10-11 to discuss Russian activity in the Baltic.

A Swedish newspaper recently said Russia regards the eastern Baltic sea as a Russian lake and not as international waters.

Wheat Crop To Move Faster

OTTAWA (UP)—This fall's Canadian wheat crop will be sped to the world's markets much faster than in former years as a result of a four-nation shipping conference held here.

The new regulations will be put into effect in time to handle the 1950 crop, Chevrier said.

U.S. STORMS SEND 33 TO HOSPITALS

CHICAGO (UP)—Tornadoes that lashed the southwest and a thunderstorm that swept through Pittsburgh injured 89 persons today, hospitalizing 33. The violent storms resulted when a southern warm wave bumped into cold breezes from Canada.

At least 66 persons were injured in the tornadoes. At Great Bend, Kan., local Red Cross chairman Ray Scholz said that more than 44 persons were treated by nurses and firemen besides 10 victims who were hospitalized.

Twenty-three persons were injured and treated at hospitals for burns, cuts and shock suffered when lightning struck a streetcar in the heart of downtown Pittsburgh, setting it afire.

Penniless 'In-Laws' Fly Atlantic To U.S.

The British relatives—29 mothers, one sister and three fathers—left London Thursday night on a chartered Icelandic Airlines Skyliner, scheduled to arrive in New York this afternoon.

Mrs. A. Kilgour, leader of the group, said they didn't have a nickel among them. The Treasury turned down their request for a dollar allowance.

NEWFOUNDLAND PREMIER COMING

Provincial Leaders Of Dominion Invited To Eastermost Province

By CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland and his health minister, J. R. Chalker, will hit the road next week in a Canada-wide tour to deliver personal invitations to the new province's coming-out party.

Mr. Smallwood and his colleague have split the job of inviting provincial premiers from the rest of Canada to the Cabot Day celebrations at St. John's June 24, to mark Newfoundland's entry into Confederation. The premier will visit cities west of Ottawa and the health minister will tour the east.

Mr. Smallwood's itinerary will bring him to Victoria and Vancouver between May 11 and May 15.

The Newfoundland premier will meet again the provincial leaders with whom he shared a conference table last January at the Dominion-Provincial constitutional parleys in Ottawa. Most of the premiers plan to invite the Newfoundlanders to luncheons and dinners and show them around town. Premier Campbell of Manitoba will show Mr. Smallwood some of the damage caused in the Winnipeg area by floods.

Indications are that the Premier of the newest province will be given the full treatment accorded V.I.P.s who visit western Canada.

He will return to Newfoundland an honorary Indian chief with a headdress to prove it. Indians in the Lethbridge, Alta., district will bestow the honor on the wiry, bow-tied Newfound-lander when he visits there. Right now they are trying to translate Newfoundland into Indian language so they will have an appropriate title for him.

Calgary will give him a cowboy hat as a souvenir. Citizens of Medicine Hat have a surprise gift they call "The Medicine Hat flying plate."

None of the Premiers has said whether he will be able to accept the invitation of the touring Newfoundlanders. It is likely, however, that at least two, Premier Duplessis of Quebec and Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan, will be unable to go. June 24 is Jean Baptiste Day in Quebec and Mr. Duplessis will likely be busy. Saskatchewan government officials said Mr. Douglas anticipated a heavy log of business around that time.

Builders At Work Behind Picket Lines

A.F.L.-affiliate building tradesmen were working today behind picket lines set up by C.I.O.-affiliate strikers from Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros. Ltd.

Jobs being picketed today were the Strathcona Hotel addition on Douglas Street and the Public Library addition on Blanshard Street.

There was only brief hesitancy on the part of the building tradesmen as to whether or not to cross the picket lines.

At the Strathcona, contractor George Wheaton was on hand to tell his men if they did not work today he would be forced to close up the job as before. He advised the men to work today to see what happened at other projects.

MEN AGREE

The men, about 15 in all, conferred between themselves and agreed to work. Mostly laborers, they were set to work immediately mixing concrete. There also were some carpenters present. At the public library, only four men were involved. Three laborers and a plumber reported for work at 8 this morning. They disregarded the pickets who were there to meet them.

The laborers set to work cleaning out water-filled excavations to allow for the pouring of concrete footings.

Reason given by the strikers for their picketing was that they objected to the use of cement brought to the city and distributed Thursday.

CEMENT UNLOADED

The cement, 10,000 bags in all, was brought here by barge from Bamerton. Unloading began at 3 in the afternoon and went on until 9 at night when the barge was completely empty.

Island Building Supply Company was agent for the entire load. It did not, however, ask its own truck drivers to handle the shipment.

Contractors wanting a share of the load were told they would have to come and get it. Some took their own trucks and some of their own laborers to help load up. Others employed cartage firms to do the job for them.

Both Heaney's and Dowell's shared in the hauling.

Entire operation was watched by strikers and a handful of police who were there to prevent trouble.

Only incident came early in the afternoon when one striker sat in the roadway in an attempt to prevent a truck from getting to the wharfside where the cement barge was moored. The sitting striker was gently removed by two husky police officers. There was no further trouble although strikers shouted "cat calls" at drivers who passed by with cement-laden trucks.

Drew Asks One Board Do All Govt. Buying

OTTAWA (BUP)—Establishment of a central purchasing office for all government departments was suggested today by Opposition Leader George Drew. Drew told the House committee examining the public accounts that there was danger of inefficiency in the present system, by which each department handled its own purchasing. Robert Bryce, assistant Deputy Minister of Finance in charge of the Treasury Board division, said the King's Printer handled all purchases and orders for stationery, printing and supplies, and the Canadian Commercial Corporation handled purchases for the armed services. Leopold Langlois (Lib.-Gaspé) feared that government purchases in smaller communities would be cut short if a central purchasing agent was established. Large orders such as might be handled through a central agency would go to large manufacturers in Ontario and Quebec, he said.

Thursday, Bryce said that the government would continue to compile defence department estimates in such a way that military secrets would not be made public.

A DREAM COME TRUE

Royal Respects Paid By Junior May Queen

The sun smiled down today on a meeting of two queens. Dainty, blonde Nicci Dawn Lucas, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lance Lucas, 1921 Cook Street, just named Junior May Queen, paid her respects to May Queen-elect Beverley Hearn, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Hearn, 1661 McTear Avenue, who had to be taken out of classroom at Mount Douglas High for the royal visit.

But nobody minded, least of all bruzette Beverley's principal, Eric Forster.

Hand-in-hand, the two queens compared notes and agreed they will love every hectic moment of fittings, photographs and interviews, prior to their crowning for the gala May 24 festivities.

"It's a dream come true for Nicci, for she always thought the little Portland Rose Festival Queen in the May 24 parade was just the thing," said Mrs. Lucas today.

As for Beverley, what pretty teen-ager would not love to have a complete new wardrobe at one fell swoop? Nicci will be crowned May 20 and Beverley on the evening of May 22 on the steps of the Legislative Building.

And then it's the city's most colorful event for them, not from the sidelines this year, but from the seats of honor.

'KLANSMEN' KEEP TENSION HIGH IN ONTARIO VILLAGE

NEWINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Terror gripped this village today as residents feared new outbreaks of cross-burning by a band of vigilantes calling themselves members of the Ku Klux Klan.

Residents, who asked their identity be kept secret for fear of retribution, said three fiery crosses have been burned during the last month in Newington, a village of 308. It is 12 miles northwest of Cornwall.

Latest episode was Wednesday night when a blazing 25-foot cross was accompanied by chants of threats of vengeance.

Members of the Klan, said to number 80, claim to be the moral protectors of this sleepy little farming village. They said the crosses have been burned in front of homes of persons of questionable morals.

3 Countries Ask Soviet Explain Seizure Of Ships

Britain, Sweden, Denmark Declare Seas Treated Like Russian Lakes

LONDON (UP)—Britain, Sweden and Denmark have launched official inquiries into the disappearance or seizure of seven fishing vessels off Russian-held coasts and protest notes are expected to be sent to Moscow shortly.

The investigations are aimed at finding out why Russian ships and warplanes seem sometimes to act as if international waters were Soviet lakes.

Recent incidents involving western craft and Soviet patrols in the Baltic and White Seas prompted speculation that the Russians may be expanding secret military installations in those areas.

Official sources in Stockholm reported the Swedish government will send to Moscow within a few days a stiffly worded protest over the detention of two fishing boats and harassment of another by the Soviet navy in the Baltic.

The British government asked the Soviets why they seized a British trawler last Monday in the White Sea and took it to a Russian port. The vessel and its crew of 21 have not been heard from since.

Four Danish fishing ships are missing in the Baltic. Denmark is expected to protest to Moscow that the vessels were seized in international waters and have been held by the Russians since April 28.

The Swedish note will protest against the seizure by Soviet naval units of two fishing ships, the Larex and the Marlon. They were seized off the Polish coast Feb. 20 and held for 13 days. The Larex had another brush with the Russian fleet two weeks ago when a minesweeper trained its guns on the vessel and chased it almost to the Swedish coast.

The Danes claim their fishermen have been arrested in the open sea, and that some have been forced to sign "confessions" Foreign Under-Secretary Ernest

The weather bureau said an intense storm is moving north from Nebraska. The forecast was for rain to start in mid-afternoon, continuing intermittently until Saturday morning. By that time the storm centre is expected to have moved north of Winnipeg and the winds to have dropped.

In Winnipeg, the level of the Red River now is near the 26-foot mark set in the floods of 1932. Flooding is reached at 18-foot stage. Steam-heating service was cut off to 300 business establishments in downtown Winnipeg because of flood conditions.

The flood crest had been expected to reach this city tomorrow, but Hurst said it may not reach here until early next week. It was difficult to predict, he said.

Union Bids For End To Building Strike

Victoria, Nanaimo, Comox To Be Linked By Air Starting May 15

A new air service linking major points on the southern half of Vancouver Island will be inaugurated around May 15 by Queen Charlotte Air Lines.

In a telephone interview from Vancouver with the Daily Times today, J. E. Kyte, traffic manager, said it is planned to operate two flights daily each way between Victoria (Patricia Bay airport), and Nanaimo (Cassidy airport).

In addition, the morning flight, which will leave Patricia Bay at 10 daily, will continue through to the Comox airport. Passengers on the same flight will be able to change planes at Cassidy and be at Sea Island airport, Vancouver, by 11. The air line now operates six round trips daily between Nanaimo and Vancouver.

The present tri-weekly service between Nanaimo and Tofino will be made a daily service at the same time, completing a small airways network for the island.

Travelers going to Port Alberni will be able to connect with a limousine which goes to that city from Nanaimo daily.

"We intend to spend as little time on the grounds as possible in order to give the fastest service," Mr. Kyte said.

Silver Anson aircraft, each with a capacity of eight passengers, will be used.

Queen Charlotte Air Lines has mushroomed from a start with one aircraft just after the war to its present position as the third largest air service in the province. J. Spilsbury is president.

Tentative schedule calls for planes to leave Patricia Bay at 10 in the morning and 2:30 in the afternoon, arriving at Cassidy 25 minutes later. It will be possible to make a round trip to Comox from Victoria in one day.

Limousine service from the city to Patricia Bay will be handled by C. & C. Taxi Ltd. The transportation firm has erected a radio mast on the roof of its downtown offices and will be in direct radio contact with other Q.C.A. offices.

Ask Inquiry Into Causes Of Dispute

Offer to end the building supply strike that has tied up construction throughout the city for the last six weeks was made to Labor Minister Cates this afternoon by Robert R. Smeal, special representative of Division 234 Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, whose truck-driving members are idle.

The offer came in a letter which asked the Labor Minister to set up an Industrial Inquiry Commission to probe the cause of the dispute between the union and Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros., and to promote conditions favorable to settlement.

Mr. Smeal pointed out in his letter the minister, in setting up an inquiry commission, would be exercising a right given him under a section of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

"You are respectfully urged to exercise this prerogative and furthermore, as a token of a sincere desire for a peaceful settlement, the writer will, if the minister so advises, recommend to the employees concerned a resumption of work pending the findings and direction of such a commission," Mr. Smeal wrote.

Meanwhile, strike activities by the union continued.

Picket lines this morning were thrown around the Strathcona Hotel addition on Douglas Street and the Public Library addition on Blanshard Street.

Although most of the building trade workmen assigned to the jobs were uncertain as to whether or not they should cross the picket lines, they hesitated only briefly before crossing over.

At the Strathcona, contractor George Wheaton was on hand to tell his men if they did not work he would be forced to close up the job. He advised the men to work today and see what happened at other projects.

New Hearing Date On City Wage Action

Mr. Justice H. S. Wood in Supreme Court today granted a further adjournment for the hearing of a city motion to set aside an arbitration award to the Civic Employees' Protection Association, Local No. 50.

The judge set the hearing for May 16, at the request of W. H. M. Haldane, counsel for the city. The motion first came up for hearing on April 19.

In asking for an adjournment, Mr. Haldane informed the judge there was a possibility that some agreement would be reached between the city and 250 of its outside staff involved in the wage dispute.

The city is seeking to have the arbitration award set aside on the grounds of "misconduct" on the part of two members of the arbitration board. The city contends they acted on inadmissible evidence in arriving at an award.

The dispute arose when a 7½-cent-an-hour increase was awarded the outside staff. The city contended an earlier decision of 3 cents was made but not signed, then changed in the light of later evidence.

QUITS RANGERS

Lynn Patrick Named As Coach Of Cougars

Lynn Patrick today resigned as coach of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League to accept the position as coach of the Victoria Cougars. It was reported in a British United Press dispatch from New York.

The announcement of Patrick's resignation came as a surprise as last year was his first as coach of the Rangers and he guided the team into the Stanley Cup finals against the Detroit Red Wings, taking the wings to the final game of a best-of-seven series.

Commenting on his son Lynn's resignation, Lester Patrick, owner of the Cougars, said: "When I took out the Victoria franchise in the P.C.L. I told both the boys (Muzz is the other son and is at present coach of the Tacoma Rockets) that there was a position open on the Cougars anytime they wanted it."

"I don't know what has happened in New York to cause Lynn to resign but he will be the coach of the Cougars next season. I'm not getting any younger and it will be nice to have one of my sons associated with the club."

One probable explanation of Lynn's action stems from the fact that general manager Frank Boucher of the Rangers is a relatively young man and Lynn can not see any further promotion in that direction with the Ranger organization.

Longer Season Forecast For Halibut Men

Longer seasons or split seasons for halibut fishermen may result from investigations of catches planned by the federal government.

Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew said in Victoria today funds are included in the 1950 estimates of his department, soon to go before the House of Commons, to pay Canada's share of costs of the investigations.

The Halibut-Salmon Commission, comprising representatives of Canada and the U.S., will conduct the survey.

Mr. Mayhew said most halibut fishermen now appear to be making their full quota in catches within three weeks and that it is felt they might be allowed to take larger catches or that a second period of fishing for the rich fish could be established.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

LEGACY OF LANGUAGE

NOW that a lightning-momentary, it is true—of my public engagements gives me a little more leisure, I have been trying to catch up with my reading. And among other things I have been browsing through a fascinating book called "Word Origins and Their Romantic Stories." It is written by Dr. Wilfred Funk, who was for so long associated with the dictionary bearing his name.

Words have always held a fascination for me, for, as the author says, "they are little windows through which we can look into the past." And many of those in common use today have come down to us from the mists of antiquity and, in some cases, have retained their original meaning over the years.

MAUDLIN AND MARTINET

FOR INSTANCE, I didn't know until I read his book that the adjective "maudlin," which means given to ready tears or, more often, to the tearful stage of drunkenness, is a contraction from the old English word "maudelein," which itself was a contraction from Magdalene.

And that its association with tears arose from the tendency of many of the classical painters of medieval days to portray Mary Magdalene weeping. Incidentally, this explains why Magdalene College, Oxford University, is pronounced "Maudlin"—to the bewilderment of tourists unacquainted with the vagaries of English pronunciation.

MARTINET AND CHAUVINISM

HUMAN nature apparently doesn't change very much over the centuries, even if words do. When you call a harsh disciplinarian a "martinet," you probably don't realize that you are commemorating the name of Jean Martinet, who built up the first regular army in Europe with methods that would be considered shocking today.

Of French origin is another word, often used scoffingly in connection with super-patriots. It is "chauvinism," and is the legacy left to our language by Nicholas Chauvin, a soldier noted for his over-effusive allegiance to Napoleon.

We have also thugs and mountebanks with us today. The former term came to us from ancient India and is a contraction of their word "thag," which itself was a corruption from the Sanskrit word "sthaga," meaning cheat. As to the mountebanks, they reached us by way of ancient Italy where the pedlars used to mount a bench—"monta-banco"—to sell their fraudulent wares.

ROBUST AND DIAPHANOUS

THE WORD "robust" that we use to connote a strong, healthy person, had its origin in the Latin word "robustus," meaning made of oak. Oddly enough, the word "corroborate" comes from the same source, suggesting that when you corroborate what someone has said you are strengthening it to the comparable inflexibility of oak.

Women who talk glibly about diaphanous garments may not know that the word means just what it did in the Greek, for "dia" meant "through" and "phano" meant "show." While wearers of amethysts probably aren't aware that they are wearing what the ancients believed was a charm against drunkenness. The word came to us from the Greek "a" meaning "not," and "methystos," meaning "drunk."

SANDWICH AND SHAME

WHEN you call for a sandwich you are harking back to medieval England, when the gambler Earl of Sandwich, loth to leave a card game for high stakes in order to eat, ordered his servants to bring him a hunk of meat between bread, thus starting a custom which has continued till this day, although today's sandwiches may bear little resemblance to those of the Earl's!

And while on the subject of food, I wonder how many of my readers, asking for "white meat" or "dark meat" when turkey or chicken graces the table, are aware that those terms date back to the Puritans who were so super-moderate that they coined the phrases to spare them from the shame of asking for the breast or leg of the fowl?

ISLAND PLAYERS STAR

Lantzville Group In Drama Festival Comedy

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

The highlight of Thursday evening's session of the Victoria Drama Festival was the colorful, laugh-provoking entry of the Lantzville Players, "The Moving Finger."

This was one of three out-of-town plays making up the program at the Club Sirocco. Commencing her adjudication, Jessie Richardson said she thought it a pity that there should have been so small an audience for the up-island groups. She feared it might be interpreted as indifference, pointing out that players needed a good audience if they were going to do their best.

"THE MOVING FINGER"

Presented by Lantzville Players

Cast: Jovan III-King, Edson Herman, Major Vedolovitch, G. H. Fraser, Captain Populofsky, Hugh Fraser, W. Peterson, and G. Macleod, Gavrilovich, William Peterson, Dikran Narajian, Arthur Fraser, Lask, Margaret Rose, Landiary, Clarice Sheppard, Director, F. S. Dyke

The adjudicator declared this to be an excellent play, almost musical comedy as to type. She thought the costuming remarkably good and wondered where they had got such things. A "voice from the audience: "We made our own!"

"All the more to be commended," Mrs. Richardson replied amid applause.

Every character had a good idea of what he was doing, the adjudicator continued. There was good atmosphere from the moment the curtain opened on the colorful setting. Teamwork was extremely good.

Musical interludes were provided by Bernard Rain, violinist, with Dorothy Francis at the piano.

Tonight's program

There will be four plays to-night, the program opening with the Nanaimo Community Players in a play written and directed by Dorothy Plant, "A Bit of Capital." The same group is also presenting "Dark Brown," a play successful in last year's festival.

The Masque Dramatic Society of Port Alberni will present a portion of the famous three-act play, "Ladies in Retirement." The program will conclude with Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth," by the Qualicum Players, up-island festival winners.

Mrs. Richardson found the setting rather sparse and not very homelike. And again, she felt the two sisters might have been made to look older in accordance with the script. Tizzie received considerable praise from the adjudicator for making all her points and having a fine sense of comedy. Lullie maintained a pretty fair pace and evinced a spirit of teamwork but occasionally dropped a cue. However, the young man picked up his cues well which helped to retrieve lost pace, the adjudicator felt.

Thirty-two men of the Royal Canadian Navy, from chief petty officers to ordinary seamen, graduated recently from the new R.C.N. Preparatory School at H.M.C.S. Naden at Esquimalt.

Outstanding among six who passed with honors was PO. John W. Page, Victoria, with an average of 93 per cent. Others passing with honors were CPO. Peter S. Cox, P.O. Walter E. Bell, L.S. Thomas A. Deakin, all of Victoria; CPO. Fred W. Bryan, Winnipeg, and OS. Paul Godbout, Sherbrooke, Que.

Each graduate is qualified educationally for advancement to commissioned officer, but some are young enough for other channels of advancement that are open to them in the navy.

The preparatory school is unique in the navy. Designed to "provide an avenue of advancement to every ambitious sailor, regardless of rating," the school was organized by the senior schoolmaster in the Pacific Command.

Beacon Hill Park Grows As Tourist Attraction

Citizens And Visitors Impressed With Flowers, Shrubs, Lakes

Beacon Hill Park is beginning to rival Butchart's Gardens as a tourist attraction, W. H. Warren, superintendent of park, said today following release of his annual report.

"Citizens make excellent use of the park and the flowers and shrubs drew favorable comment from homelotter and visitor alike," he said.

In his report, however, Mr. Warren said there was a serious lack of play space within the city "not only for future needs, but for present requirements."

"Any increase in our population will make the situation more acute," he said.

"The fact that conditions are ameliorated to some extent by certain factors such as the preponderance of public beaches and beauty spots around the city does not alter the conditions under which children play near their homes."

MORE PLAYGROUNDS

The eight playlots and eight playgrounds Victoria has could well be doubled, he felt.

These, he said, were more expensive to maintain than a larger playground, but for lack of the other, the small playlots were necessary. Central Park was the most used in the city and heavy maintenance was essential since 1946.

Visitors to the Canadian International Trade Fair in Toronto this year will see a spinning wheel from Britain which was first used in the year 1350.

Want Cordova Bay Traffic Slowed

Because traffic is menacing the safety of children, especially on Sundays and holidays, Cordova Bay Community Club will ask Saanich Council to take steps to see that the 20-mile-an-hour speed limit through the bay area is strictly enforced. Club meeting Wednesday was told there was a high rate of speed limit violations throughout the area.

BRAINS NEVER KILL ATHLETES SAYS MUSICIAN

Less emphasis on sports and more on music is advocated by Graham Steed, Christ Church Cathedral organist and choirmaster who claims that "lots of people have died of athlete's heart, but few as a result of an intelligent brain."

Mr. Steed, addressing a meeting of Oak Bay Kiwanis Club Thursday evening, argued that athletics had left no permanent contribution with participants.

He blamed a decaying interest in choral singing here on schoolboys, who, he said, regarded singing as "sissy stuff."

NEWFOUNDLAND CALLING

Premier Invites All Provincial Heads

By CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland and his health minister, J. R. Chalker, will hit the road next week in a Canada-wide tour to deliver personal invitations to the new province's coming-out party.

Mr. Smallwood and his colleagues have split the job of inviting provincial premiers from the rest of Canada to the Cabot Day celebrations at St. John's June 24, to mark Newfoundland's entry into Confederation. The premier will visit cities west of Ottawa and the health minister will tour the east.

Mr. Smallwood's itinerary will bring him to Victoria and Vancouver between May 11 and May 15.

The Newfoundland premier will meet again the provincial leaders with whom he shared a conference table last January at the Dominion-Provincial constitutional parleys in Ottawa. Most of the premiers plan to invite the Newfoundlanders to luncheons and dinners and show them around town. Premier Campbell of Manitoba will show Mr. Smallwood some of the damage caused in the Winnipeg area by floods.

Indications are that the Premier of the newest province will be given the full treatment accorded V.I.P.'s who visit western Canada.

He will return to Newfoundland an honorary Indian chief with a headdress to prove it. Indians in the Lethbridge, Alta., district will bestow the honor on the wiry, bow-tied Newfoundlanders when he visits there. Right now they are trying to translate Newfoundland into Indian language so they will have an appropriate title for him.

1,500,000 Germans Not Yet Freed By Russians

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer charged today that 1,500,000 Germans are still missing in the Soviet Union. He demanded, in the name of humanity, that the Kremlin account for their fate.

Adenauer made a special appearance before the West German Parliament at Bonn after he learned of Thursday night's Soviet announcement that repatriation of German war prisoners had been completed.

The Soviet statement dashed the hopes of families of hundreds of thousands of missing soldiers. It came as a great shock to the West German capital. Many politicians viewed it as a severe blow to the Communist Party in the west. When a Communist deputy got up to answer Adenauer virtually the entire body of lawmakers with the exception of three Communist deputies present and three others walked out.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the last group of war prisoners—17,538 of them—had been returned to Germany. But Adenauer told Parliament that German figures show about 1,500,000 Germans are still left inside Russia. He added:

"These terrible figures must be cleared up. This is an appeal to the humanity of all peoples."

DETROIT (UP)—Picketing threatened today to delay return to work of Chrysler employees who have gone payless for 101 days.

Maintenance and repair workers were barred from the company's huge Dodge plant.

Pickets refused to allow a shift of 900 from entering the plant this morning. The strikers said they were told not to let any workers in until the new contract is ratified.

The C.I.O. United Auto Workers ended their strike Thursday, but the 89,000 rank and file workers will not vote on approval of the contract until tomorrow.

However, all U.A.W. locals except Dodge agreed to permit maintenance employees to enter the plants so workers could get back on the job as quickly as possible.

The corporation warned that pickets' action "may make it impossible to operate any of the company's plants on Monday."

Pickets also prevented maintenance workers from entering another small Chrysler plant in the Detroit area.

The U.A.W. termed its new contract a complete victory and immediately shifted its bargaining guns on General Motors.

Dewey Emerges As Republican Aspirant Again

NEW YORK (UP)—New York State politicians today saw Thomas E. Dewey emerging as a candidate for a third term as Governor and possibly as a seeker of a third Republican Presidential nomination.

They were impressed by the "draft Dewey" demonstration which broke out at a $100 a plate state Republican dinner Thursday night after the New York Governor had attacked the Democratic Party as "the big money party" which accepted the support of gangsters, subversives and "wealthy playboys" to stay in power.

Shouting, parading Deweyites almost delayed his state-wide broadcast on the American Broadcasting Company network.

Keep Fanaticism Out

EVER SINCE THE END OF THE First Great War, Canada and the Canadian people have tried to understand—more or less successfully—the meaning of the invasion of spurious ideologies. There have been times, particularly in the early days of the 30's, when it was possible to draw a clearer line of demarcation between that segment of our population inclined toward statism, and that other segment which believes in a proven system of democratic procedure.

We refer to this matter of popular attitude toward Communistic philosophy because there is ever prevalent the danger of an element of the Canadian people importing the Government at Ottawa to emulate the tactics of the republic to the south. For example, one Tory newspaper argues that Prime Minister St. Laurent is complacent when he says that Canadian laws have sufficient authority to deal with all those who challenge the Dominion's free institutions. We do not agree with any argument which suggests that Communism should be outlawed in this country.

Let us be clear on this point. We abominate any movement calculated to try to undermine the Canadian way of life. At the same time, we suggest that any imitation of our friendly neighbor's method of combating expressions of opinion running counter to our accepted concept of democracy is not proving as profitable to the national wellbeing as might be desired.

It may be permissible at this point to interject one or two observations which Mr. Charles Nichols, the able representative of the Southern newspapers at Washington, included in his second instalment on "McCarthy's Spy Hunt" recently. Here they are in part: If a man is criticized by a known Communist spokesman or organ for anti-Communist views, that, according to Mr. Nichols, may simply mean that he is a high Communist in the underground and that the criticism is made in order to give him protective political coloring.

If all these principles were accepted—guilt by association, guilt by disassociation, and guilt by denial—it would be extremely difficult for any man with a public reputation and with any views on any subject to clear himself of charges that he was a Communist; assuming, of course, that at some point in his career he found himself in temporary agreement with some line in the changing Communist policy.

In fact, man could be guilty by association, guilty by disassociation and guilty by denial all at once.

Mr. Nichols has attended the hearings of the subcommittee which for several days has met in the caucus chamber of the United States Senate Office building a trifle below the Capitol. He knows whereof he speaks. We allude to this because we, too, conceived the idea that it might be possible to get into the relatively small chamber one evening a week ago to hear Dr. Owen Lattimore defend himself against the charges of Senator Joseph McCarthy. Though we arrived at least three-quarters of an hour before the enquiry was scheduled to reopen, we discovered a throng equal to at least six times the caucus room's capacity for accommodation. So hundreds missed another episode of this Washington "show."

We mention this particular incident for the simple reason, and for no other, that Canada should think very carefully before setting up any agency, or suggesting any change in the laws of this country that might create a state of hysteria from which anything sinister might flow.

Under successive governments in Great Britain no action has been taken to outlaw any political organization in conflict with a democratically constituted government. The people of the "right little isle" have a rooted objection to any statutory procedure that could destroy liberty of speech—liberty in any legal form. That great forum of varied expression which is open to all and sundry on Sunday afternoons in Hyde Park is a wonderful sieve through which every kind of point of view is screened. Most of that which emerges is chaff. Some of it is wheat. But down through the ages the stolid people of Britain have regarded this unique mechanism of expression as one of the great bulwarks against the invasion of those crackpot ideas that are inimical to our basic philosophy. Existing Canadian laws should be adequate to take care of those disciples of alien philosophies who speak out of turn and act contrary to established practices.

A Chance For Education

ALTHOUGH THE ACTIONS OF THE Sons of Freedom, as exemplified in their recent nudist parades and burning of houses, indicate their mental state is little removed from that of small children, it seems fairly obvious that they will not easily be led along more intelligent paths as might youngsters of teenage or less. But there is hope that the more youthful members of the sect—in particular those who are shortly to be quartered at Patricia Bay—may be amenable to suggestion and friendly instruction. The congregation of these children, cut off from their elders for periods varying with the time required to restore their homes or the length of prison sentence the parents have received, should thus provide an excellent opportunity for missionary work of a kind calculated to make them better Canadians.

It should not be forgotten that these young people are not being punished. They have come before no court, been charged with no crimes, sentenced to no imprisonment. They are being gathered at Patricia Bay solely because their fathers and mothers have been the victims of, or the participants in, illegal acts in Krestova and nearby areas. The approach to the youngsters should therefore be friendly and encouraging; their minds should be opened to the broader prospects that life in Canada can offer; their proper place in a land of opportunity such as this Dominion should be clearly revealed to them.

When their terms of involuntary exile are over they should return to their reconstructed homes with a better understanding of modern life and the world about them—an understanding which, perhaps, they may in some measure pass along to their elders. With religious fanaticism overcome, the well-known industrious and thrifty qualities of the law-abiding Doukhobors will have a better chance of making themselves evident.

Catching Up At Last

A NEW DEVELOPMENT IN PITTSBURGH whereby the age-old Egyptian cloth known as ramie may be processed by machines promises to revolutionize the textile industry. According to a United Press account, the cloth, used to wrap mummies and practically indestructible as far as time, weather, vermin and wear are concerned, may soon be turned out in quantities at a cost comparable with that of ordinary cotton. The problem until now has been to devise a machine capable of handling the long fibres of the ramie plant, which often are more than a foot long. The limited use of the fibres to date has been conditioned by the high cost of production.

That situation now appears to have been terminated, and the long-wearing material is expected to be placed on the market at an early date. In other words, a fabric, known in ancient Egypt and mentioned in a Chinese document 22 centuries before the birth of Christ, can now be offered to consumers in the 20th century world. It has taken us a long time to learn how to adapt the remarkable fibres to our uses, but we may claim to have caught up with the ancient Egyptians in this regard at least. Perhaps now we can start to rediscover the secret of Damascus steel or solve the fundamental principle of Methuselah's longevity.

Western Allies Should Beware Of Moscow Trap In Youth March

By BRUCE BLOSSAT, from New York

THERE have been fresh assurances from Secretary of State Acheson that the western powers do not intend to be dislodged from Berlin by planned Communist disturbances in the city late in May.

The chief Red manoeuvre in the offing is a march of German youths from the Soviet zone into western sectors of Berlin.

FIRM RESISTANCE
Acheson told newsmen the western nations could not divulge what steps they would take to counter the Russian-inspired demonstrations. But he emphasized that the Allies would be very firm in their resistance to any pressures.

The secretary did not indicate, however, that the West contemplates any advance diplomatic moves to offset probable Russian plans to turn the occasion into a propaganda field day. If we do nothing on this score, we may miss the boat badly.

Acheson's remarks, indeed, the whole tenor of our response to the proposed youth march, suggest that we are viewing this Soviet tactic as a serious effort to end western control over Berlin.

The Russians are hardly simple enough to believe a mass of German youths, no matter how sizable the force, will take over a large city area stoutly defended by Allied guns and tanks. The young German Reds are not likely to have much weight of metal to throw against the defenders.

It seems much more probable that the Soviet Union is trying to put the West in a position where its soldiers will have to shoot down and perhaps kill dozens or even hundreds of German youths in the streets of Berlin.

The propaganda value of such an event is unquestionably rated high in Moscow, as well it should be. The legal and moral rightness of the Allies' position would not look impressive when set beside a bloody slaughter of youths.

The youth march has all the earmarks of a typical Communist trick. It isn't enough for us to be ready to stand off this "threat" to our control of Berlin. We must act to deflate the propaganda value of the march before it happens.

We should formally notify the Russian government that the proposed demonstration would clearly violate four-power agreements affecting control of the western sectors; and that the necessary resistance to such violation could only result in needless bloodshed. That message should urge that the march be called off in the interest of preserving order and saving human life. And the whole world should know what we say.

Job Only Begun

By JOSEPH ALSOP From Rome

ACCORDING to the official timetable, we are at the midway point in the reconstruction of Europe, which is to be completed by 1952. Unfortunately, every fact of the European situation already suggests that the official timetable is worthless.

The rebuilding of the war-shattered political and economic life of the western world is going to require an American attack on a much broader front and with a far more elastic time limit.

The temptation, of course, is to say, "Forget it, let the Europeans stew in their own juice." But here we run into the grim blackmail of the cold war. If America ducks its responsibility, western Europe will rather soon become a new province of the Soviet empire. And the United States will experience the equivalent of a gigantic military defeat, probably without a shot having been fired.

IN NO sense does this mean that the American investment in Europe to date has been wasted. Here in Rome for instance, only two and a half years ago, a great crisis of misery impended. The economy was at a standstill. If America had not acted the Communists would surely have come to power.

That time now seems incredibly distant. The Italian recovery, made possible by Marshall aid, has, as it were, glided this superbly beautiful city with a splendid glitter of prosperity. The life of the poor is still infinitely hard. There are still 2,000,000 jobless in Italy. But in Italy the gap between privileged and underprivileged has been cruelly wide. The profusion of luxury that everywhere meets the eye in Rome in the Holy Year means that a semblance of normal economic life has now returned here.

IN THE political sphere, the same rule holds good. The government of Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi is at least a stable, non-Communist government, comprising many able men. By the stern police measures of the bullet-headed little minister of the interior, Mario Scelba, the authority of the Italian state has at least been restored.

These achievements, which seemed almost unimaginable two and a half years ago, are certainly not to be scorned. But the smiling surface of Italy in 1950 must not be less than a mirage. Too many things that ought to have happened have not happened.

NOTHING has been done, to begin with, about the basic social and economic problems that confront Italy. Land reform is at last being discussed by the government, but only very tepidly, and as a result of direct Communist pressure. As for Italian over-population, widespread joblessness in the midst of prosperity, and the appalling disparity between rich and poor, these topics are not even being talked about.

In part, to be sure, this is because the Marshall plan administration has tended to emphasize increasing Italian national production at the expense of everything else. But the real cause of this curious political-economic sterility in Italy is another gap in the national recovery. A normal political life has not yet been restored.

THE De Gasperi government in effect enjoys a monopoly on power because the Communists are the only alternative. Prime Minister De Gasperi himself and the wisest men around him sincerely desire to tackle Italy's great problems. But a monopoly situation leads to complacency. And thus the elements in the De Gasperi coalition having a vested interest in the status quo always succeed in blocking bold action. Thus the government grows more and more sterile, and tends to rely more and more on simple police measures to maintain itself in the face of the discontent of the masses.

THE sterile centrist government, staying in power because most people do not want the Communists, because the police are efficient, and because of Marshall aid, is a European phenomenon, to be found in other countries besides Italy. But such governments cannot endure forever. Even if Marshall aid is not abruptly terminated in 1952, the Communists must win eventually, unless the present political monopoly can be broken. The creation of a healthy, vigorous, independent left wing is the basic necessity of the restoration of normal political life in Europe.

Finally, the situation is rendered all the more dangerous by another thing that has not happened. Neither Italy, nor western Europe as a whole has recovered as yet from the neurosis left behind by two great world wars. The symptoms have been muted by the progress of the last two years. But the neurosis remains and still makes the western Europeans feel that they are not masters of their own fate—that they are hardly responsible, indeed, for whatever the future may bring to them.

THERE is no reason to despair. The western European neurosis can be cured almost overnight, for example, if the western Europeans can be given a sense of security from aggression. All else will then follow. But it is now urgent to grasp how inherent the weakness of the situation in Europe is, because this is why western Europe is so vulnerable to the tactics of terror the Kremlin is now adopting. If the right counter-measures are not quickly taken in Washington, the Kremlin has only to "huff and puff and to blow the house down." (Copyright, 1950, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Non-Communist Asiatics want to be on our side if we're safe to be with—if we can be relied to stick with them when the going gets bad.—Gen. William (Wild Bill) Donovan.

Turnout At West Berlin Rally Showed Sentiments Of Citizens

By RICHARD LOWENTHAL, from Berlin

THE people of Berlin by a plebiscite of defeat" on May 1 scotched in advance any plans of political conquest which the Communist East German Government may hitherto have harbored in connection with its forthcoming Whitens youth rally in this city.

In radiant spring sunshine one million out of the three and a half million total Berlin population turned out for May Day demonstrations. But for every one Berliner marching under orders in the east sector party there were two voluntarily attending the enormous rally for freedom in front of the burned-out Reichstag in the west—the most gigantic crowd that this battered city has ever seen in the post-war era.

PAGEENTRY

The East Berlin party, it must be admitted, made up in color and pageantry what it lacked in size and spontaneity. Along the Unter Den Linden there were red and blue streamers with slogans alternating with giant ikons of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin. The monument of Frederic of Prussia in front of the University had been hidden for the occasion under an enormous cardboard arch covered with murals depicting the alliance of the Eastern peoples.

The parade was led by the pioneer organization, uniformed children in white shirts and blue collars, followed by some 20,000 blue-shirted and red-collared members of the People's Police with a squad of 120 trained police dogs as a special attraction. Swarms of pigeons symbolizing the peace movement were released during the demonstration, scattering in all directions. White-trunked sports teams doing gymnastics on lories came next before the solid phalanx of factory groups—but there were only a few tens of thousands of onlookers to admire it.

The only speech came from the trade union leader and there was no announcement from the East German government.

West of the Brandenburg Tor a record crowd watched the flags of the separated provinces east of the iron curtain being hoisted right in the middle of the enormous square facing the burnt-out Reichstag, midway between the flags of the Marshall Plan nations on one side and the member states of the West German Federal Republic on the other.

LAUNCHED IDEA

The American trade union leader, Irving Brown, representing the International Federation of Trade Unions, took the occasion to launch the idea of Atlantic Union in German public discussions. He said that a free and democratic Berlin must be anchored in a free and democratic Western Germany itself integrated with a united free Europe, and that a free Europe in order to survive must form part of a wider Atlantic Union including the United States, dealing with both economic and political problems and capable of defending itself.

Church Revives In West Germany But Russian Zone Imposes Checks

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE

ONE OF THE major differences between life in Western Germany and in the Russian-controlled zone lies in the resurgence of religious belief.

HIGHER POWER

Hitler did his best to destroy it, by ridicule and oppression and the debauching of the young. But after years of such teaching, with their churches in ruins or ruinous debt, with abject poverty seemingly shutting off all sources of income, the German people are turning away from the worship of the State, to worship anew a power that is higher than the State. Everywhere in Germany churches, both Protestant and Catholic, are building and membership in the Church is being renewed.

In the Russian occupied zone it is a different story. Marxism, which fears any power that is above the state, is keeping strict control of church funds and church literature, and even theological study is taboo. There are those who like to believe that Communism is the practical application of Christian principle. But the leaders of present day Communism know better. They know that between Christianity and Communism as it exists today there can be no peace. They know that the one cannot exist with the other — and the Communists do their utmost to defeat and destroy Christianity because in their hearts they know that Communism offers nothing to satisfy that universal hunger.

POWERLESS THREAT

Communism can no more destroy Christianity than could Nazism. It is the newer threat but it is powerless against the old, the eternal verities. Sooner or later Christianity will again overtake the dark creed of Russia as it is today overtaking the darker creed of the Nazis.

WHATEVER one may believe about the prospects of success, growing out of U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie's visit to Moscow in search of peace, it is an adventure which is attracting much attention and it will be followed with many good wishes.

It's a good thing that there are those who are persistent in the search for peace. Maybe some of us are a bit too cynical.

Of course, there would be great danger if the search for peace were mistaken in Moscow for appeasement. That might happen if a peace mission were sponsored by an individual country, or even by a group of the democracies.

But Lie's quest is an entirely different affair. His position as head of the United Nations makes him in effect a citizen of the world. He is equally the representative of all countries. His job is to make the U.N. work, and apparently it is on that universal basis that he expects to proceed on his mission.

The big point of interest is whether Lie will get to see Prime Minister Stalin. The Secretary-General hopes to meet the Soviet dictator, but on this point Moscow thus far has been silent.

It is customary for heads of state to receive the Secretary-General of the world peace organization, and it is difficult to see what good it would do Stalin to refuse to meet him. As a matter of fact, one would think it would provide good world propaganda for Moscow if the chief of state received Lie.

Lie did visit Marshal Stalin in Moscow in 1946. V. M. Molotov, then foreign minister, sat in on the conference. I understand that Lie called Stalin's attention to the Soviet Union's excessive use of the veto in the U.N., and asked Stalin if this couldn't be stopped.

Molotov is said to have glowered in anger at Lie for raising this issue, but Stalin amiably replied that he would consider the matter.

Western diplomats in Moscow take a dim view of Lie's chances of accomplishing much towards settling the cold war or any of the major issues. Still, there are those who think he might be able to lay the groundwork for something which would develop towards peace.

A SMILE

Prince Rupert News
A smile costs nothing but gives much. It takes but a moment, but the memory of it may last forever. None are so rich that they can get along without it—and none are so poor but that can be made rich by it. It enriches those who receive, without making poor those who give. It creates sunshine in the home, fosters good will in business, and is the best antidote for trouble. Yet it cannot be begged, borrowed or stolen, for it is of no value unless it is freely given away.

Toronto Globe and Mail
Worthy of mention in the social history of our times is this news story from a centre of the American coal industry:

Pittsburgh, April 24 (AP)—Joe Dickmon, who was expelled from the United Mine Workers last January after he called John L. Lewis a dictator, has apologized.

Dickmon, a miner living at Library, Pa., hasn't been able to dig coal since his suspension from the union.

Dickmon said he hopes as a result of his apology that he will be permitted to return to work at the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. mine at Library.

The United States Constitution says that "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech." What Congress cannot do Mr. John L. Lewis is evidently able to do with impunity.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"LIVING right on the scene," said the Elevator Man, "doesn't always mean you're going to see whatever's there. Lots of people have lived in London all their lives and never seen the Tower, to say nothing of the British Museum. Lots of people in Victoria have never seen the provincial museum. When did you last take a look at the gardens that make this town famous? See what I mean? If familiarity doesn't breed contempt it at least breeds a lot of indifference. You don't catch a gynecologist winking at girls. Gbing down!"

"I read," said the Elevator Man, "that a native chief from Africa has just seen his first lion. He saw it in a zoo in London. I don't suppose in his case it was a matter of not bothering to see one in his own country. In fact he probably went to some bother to avoid that. But the same principle holds—often it isn't until you get into some faraway place that you come across the things your own region is known for. Like a Scotsman who never tasted Scotch until he came to Canada, or a Victorian who didn't learn to swim till he got to a pool in Winnipeg. Lower main!"

"Strike me," said the Elevator Man, "it applies to home, too. You never appreciate home so much as when you're left it. Live in Toronto a while if you want to love Victoria more than ever. Good points stick out from a distance even better than when you're close. Do you suppose life's like that? Maybe we won't get a proper understanding of it until we've left it. But it'll be too late then to do anything about it."

Described As Buck Toothed British Women Strike Back

LONDON (Reuter) — British women are hitting back at U.S. novelist Emily Hahn who described them in a London newspaper as "spirited sheep with buck teeth and reeding chins" who chased their men unmercifully.

They wrote in to the same newspaper biting criticisms of Miss Hahn—married to a Briton—and the American female in general.

Here are extracts from some of the readers' letters: "There are just as many buck-toothed, chinless females in America as here. The American girl pulls no punches to get her man. She will go farther than telephone calls and parties if necessary. The English girl is a blushing violet by comparison." "I for one would rather have the English type of looks than the hard-lined face of the typical American woman with all her abundance of artificial aids. There is the freshness of the English woman compared to the hard-boiled, heavily made-up, emancipated American type." "The English girl as a general rule does not do the chasing. Also she is thrifty—the American girl is a spendthrift. She respects her male partner—the American girl dominates hers."

THE HOME GARDEN

Tips To Get Sprayers Ready To Fight Pests

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Gardeners are not all alike. There are some who check and clean all their gardening tools during the winter. There are others who consider this too much of a chore and complain bitterly when they find things unfit for use.

The thought in mind is spraying and dusting equipment. When pests and diseases are first noticed it is not the time to discover that the sprayer or dust-gun is out of order.

The extent to which repairs may be carried out will depend on the amount of the original investment. Low priced equipment cannot be taken apart; all cleaning must be effected from the outside.

FEW OIL DROPS

The majority of sprayers in this class have a small air hole near the handle end of the pump tube. When pressure fails to build up, a few drops of oil placed in this hole will lubricate the piston packing and often improve matters.

The more expensive types allow for the removal of the piston, and fresh grease may be applied to the leather (or packing) after cleaning.

Loss of pressure may be caused by faulty leather and rubber sealing washers. These should be inspected each spring and renewed if necessary.

A frequent cause of trouble is the blocking of the small tube which carries the spray material from the reservoir. When this tube is accessible, a wire will move the obstruction, otherwise the reservoir should be filled with hot water and a little pressure built up by pumping.

DON'T ENLARGE HOLE

Screens, located behind the disc or nozzle, should be cleaned immediately after use. The hole in the nozzle is of a predetermined size which will give the proper degree of mist at the average operating pressure. Poking wire into this hole will increase its diameter and lower the efficiency of the sprayer. A finely pointed toothpick will remove the trouble easily after soaking the nozzle in hot water. Grains of fine dust packed together under pressure, is the usual cause of stoppage in a dust-gun. A length of stiff wire and some judicious tapping will effect a cure.

To Buy Art Works

THE HAGUE (Reuter) — A "Holland Thanks Canada" committee has been formed to purchase works from living Dutch painters, sculptors and graphic artists and present them to the National Gallery at Ottawa to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the liberation of the Netherlands.

A copy of the report was tabled yesterday at a meeting of the Greater Vancouver Community Council.

50,000 Workers Talking Strike Throughout B.C.

Time Runs Short As Precarious Situation Rests In Hands Of Labor Relations Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—They're talking strike in the logging camps, construction jobs and cities of British Columbia.

Some 50,000 workers say they will lay aside their tools unless contract agreement is reached, and union heads say time is running short.

With both union and management reluctant to compromise on demands and offers, the situation now rests precariously in the hands of the harassed Labor Relations Board.

Negotiations are deadlocked in the lumber industry, backbone of the province's economy. Also involved are lower-mainland construction workers and contractors and in numerous other comparatively minor industries.

Most-crushing blow to B.C.'s economy, of course, would be a walkout of some 35,000 loggers. Members of the powerful International Woodworkers of America (I.W.O.-C.C.L.), they work the logging operations along the mainland coast and on Vancouver Island.

Before a mediation board, which probably will announce its findings this week, is the dispute between 12,000 lower mainland construction workers and the General Contractors' Association. The workers, members of seven affiliates of the Building Trades Council (A.F.L.), demand a wage boost of 15 cents an hour. The association asks a 10-cent cut.

Already on strike — and they have been for five weeks — are workers of the building supply firm of Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros. in Victoria.

Less than 100 in number, the workers have tied up virtually all construction in the capital. Five hundred tradesmen were made idle by the strike but 250 have returned to work.

The Labor Relations Board is attempting to prevent a strike of 430 linesmen here. A similar dispute is hatching in Victoria. In Vancouver, negotiations are stalemated in the case of 1,300 civic "outside" workers. All want a pay boost.

Plans To Cure Gang Misdeeds

VANCOUVER (CP)—For the first time, the two-year-old community Centres Committee report on the "street gang" problem has been made public.

It deals with the community centre problem in Vancouver and found that the number of organized street gangs of teenagers was a commentary on the lack of services to young people throughout British Columbia. It said:

"Neighborhood centres would greatly reduce the intensity of this (street gang) problem."

The report, better known as the "Weir Report," recommended skilled leaders to work with the gangs, and sought buildings for their use. Under its finding, the provincial and civic governments would have made financial contributions for the operation of community centres.

The committee was headed by Dr. G. M. Weir, then education minister, and it included representatives of school and park boards, the town planning commission, the community chest and the University of British Columbia.

A copy of the report was tabled yesterday at a meeting of the Greater Vancouver Community Council.

MOVE PROPOSED TO BAR U.S. ACTORS FROM BRITISH STAGE

LONDON (Reuter)—A campaign to keep U.S. actors and actresses off the British stage will be carried into Parliament next week.

A Conservative member of Parliament, Anthony M. Marlowe, will ask Labor Minister George Isaacs next week why he has agreed to let Tyrone Power, 14 other actors and an actress come from the United States to star in the London production of Mr. Roberts when there is unemployment in the theatrical profession here.

He will press for an explanation "what steps are being taken to encourage the employment of the British artists in British theatres."

An addition to the west coast fishing fleet touched water for the first time during the night. The 38-foot trawler Galemar was launched into Esquimalt Harbor at high tide.

Rumor Rita, Prince Planning Divorce

ROME (Reuter)—The leading Rome newspaper, Il Messaggero, reported Thursday night that Rita Hayworth and her husband, Prince Aly Khan, plan to get a divorce in Cannes, France, where they were married last year. Quoting "well-informed circles in Milan," the newspaper said the couple's decision to seek a divorce is due to "profound incompatibility of character which appeared in the months immediately after their marriage and especially since the birth in December, 1949, of their daughter, Yasmin."

Continued Cold Weather Builds Up Serious Potential In Area

Royal Albert Hall Calling For Million

LONDON (Reuter)—London's Royal Albert Hall, 80-year-old colossus of world concert auditoriums, today sent out an SOS for more than $1,000,000.

The great globe-shaped structure needs that sum for a "face-lift" and other treatment to repair the ravages of time.

Sir John Wardlaw Milne, president of the Royal Albert Hall Council, said the situation was "alarming," and that only the state could save it unless donors could be found.

The hall was completed in 1871 and dedicated to Prince Albert.

Chrysler Plans To Speed Output

DETROIT (AP)—Resumption of Chrysler operations should send this month's output of the automobile industry in the U.S. to an unprecedented 750,000 cars and trucks.

Some industry sources have put the figure at 800,000, counting on overtime operations by Chrysler and various other car and truck makers. The largest single month's output in the auto industry's half-century history was 667,657 vehicles assembled last August.

Chrysler's contribution to the year's output to date has been only 95,500 passenger cars and 8,800 trucks. All these were assembled prior to January 25 when the strike began.

At pre-strike production levels Chrysler's output loss has been figured at 480,000 cars and trucks.

Ernest Smith, Penticton district engineer of Okanagan Flood Control, said that the picture as it now stands "does not look promising."

"If the weather continues cool for the next 10 days and then a continuous warm spell is experienced, flooding is almost certain to take place."

Water is being allowed through wide-open control gates at Okanagan River mouth at the south end of Okanagan Lake in Penticton, he said.

Present flow is 700 cubic feet per second. When the heavier run-off begins, the flow will be held at a maximum of 1,000 cubic feet per second, the flow estimated by federal authorities to prevent flooding of the lowlands around Osoyoos and Penticton and at the same time keep Okanagan Lake down to a safe level from Kelowna's standpoint.

Should the run-off build up a lake level which cannot be controlled at the 1,000-cubic-feet-per-second flow through the dam, flooding of low areas in this city will take place, the engineer said. Kelowna and Osoyoos and other low areas along the valley would also be flooded, Mr. Smith said.

No tenders will be called for work on the first stage of the Okanagan flood control project until the run-off has passed its peak, he said.

He said it would not be possible to complete straightening the portion of Okanagan River which runs through Penticton in time to prevent flooding, and that even if work were started great difficulties would be encountered during the run-off.

About 200 men have almost completed preparing Penticton Creek, which runs through northeast sector of city, for the expected heavy flow.

The first badminton tournament for women was organized in England in 1900.

Both have pleaded not guilty. Accident occurred April 20 at Quadra Street and Tattersall Drive. J. Ronald Grant is counsel for Woodrow; James J. Proudfoot for Pluym.

British Labor Holds Riding In Commons By-Election

BRIGHOUSE, Yorkshire, Eng. (Reuter)—The Labor government Thursday increased its effective voting majority in the House of Commons to nine by holding Brighouse in a by-election.

L. J. Edwards, the Labor candidate, polled 24,004 votes against 23,567 for the combined National Liberal and Conservative candidate, Maj. W. E. Wooley.

The result was announced after a recount demanded by Wooley because of the narrow majority of 437 votes.

The victory increases Prime Minister Attlee's over-all majority in the commons to seven.

LOS ANGELES COAST LEAGUE FLAG THREAT

Angels Win Third In Row From Seals; Seattle Rained Out

Regarded last year as the Pacific Coast League's doormat, Los Angeles Angels are well on their way today toward making Fred Haney eat dirt.

Haney, manager of the Hollywood club, chanced to remark earlier this semester that no matter where the Stars finished the season they certainly would wind up ahead of the Angels.

Now, the Angels aren't so sure. Neither, perhaps, is Haney. For the Seraphs have installed themselves in third place, just two and a half notches behind Haney's Comets.

Los Angeles won its third straight game from San Francisco last night and this, combined with five victories over Hollywood last week, had made the Angels' case seem stronger than the bottom man in a balancing act.

Ralph Hammer cranked Los Angeles to a 4 to 1 triumph over the Seals, allowing only three hits.

Hollywood snapped a four-game losing streak by getting past Oakland, 7 to 6.

The San Diego Padres were rained out at Portland, and the affair at Seattle between the Rainiers and Sacramento also was postponed.

SASKATCHEWAN RIDERS HAVE $30,000 HEADACHE

REGINA, Sask. (BUP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders stepped high today to keep up with the football Joneses. They only hoped there would be enough gridiron thrills to sweeten the potential financial lemons.

Club officials, who really aren't magicians, expected to be out about $115,000 on their Western Football Conference team this season, although they estimated gate receipts at only $85,000. Already they were mixing the prescription for this $30,000 deficit.

Hundreds of Roughrider fans were selling memberships in the Roughriders' Booster Club. Members paid $1 for a chance at the club presidency and the car that went with it. The executive hoped this scheme would bring in thousands of dollars.

United Game With Scots To Be Exhibition Affair

An augmented Victoria United football XI will play St. Andrew's at Callister Park, Vancouver, Saturday, but it won't be a Coast League match.

That was the word received today from Harry Young, Island director of the league, following his return from a league meeting at Vancouver last night.

The league had previously agreed to allow the United to play a bolstered side in remaining league matches as an aid in preparing the Victoria team for its match against the touring English Football Association side here on June 1, with the proviso that such a move met with the approval of other clubs in the league.

UNFAIR TO ROYALS

However, at last night's meeting it was brought to the attention of the league that New Westminster Royals had a chance to win second-half honors and any advantage gained by another team in playing a non-league team would hardly be fair to such chances. Thus the match Saturday is to be classed as an exhibition.

The same situation will hold true a week from tomorrow when St. Andrew's are scheduled to play here if the championship possibilities of any league team could be affected by the result of the game, that is providing United uses its Victoria and District League players, which it has every intention of doing.

United will line up with McAllister in goal, Newman and Speller on defence, McMillan, Scott and J. Kennedy on the half lines and Anderson, Wilce, Gilchrist, McGee, Ab Travis, Jack Robbins and Williams available for forward and relief duty.

FAST STRIP FOR KENTUCKY RUN

Fifteen Runners Expected To Go; 100,000 Attend

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Nine hopeful three-year-olds, were expected to be added today to six entries already in and thus provide a 15-horse field for the 76th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs tomorrow.

Between the time the entry box closes, those expected to be added were Middleground, Mr. Trouble, Sunflower, Greek Ship, Hallieboy, On The Mark, Hawley, Trumpet King and Dooty.

The six entries yesterday were Hill Prince and Your Host, the east vs. 35 co-favorites, plus Oil Capitol, Lotowhitz, Stranded and Black George, the dark horse winner of the derby trial.

Quiet during a week of steady rain, this city began to reach its annual fever pitch as a warm sun welcomed the horde pouring in by plane, train, bus and automobile. Cloudy skies, clearing in the afternoon, were forecast for derby day, promising a fast track for the crowd of 100,000 which will witness the spectacle.

The track dried rapidly under the sun and was rated as "good" when Your Host and Mr. Trouble took impressive runs between races. With Johnny Longden up as he will be Saturday, Your Host went five furlongs in one minute even, appearing unextended as he toured the strip far out from the rail. Mr. Trouble kept to the cuppy going along the rail and was caught in :59 2-5 seconds, only two-fifths of a second over the track record for the distance.

Oil Capitol, owned by Tom Gray, a Tulsa oil man, worked a mile and an eighth in 2:00 4-5 breezing and trainer Harry Trotsek was highly pleased with the colt which may become the first grey ever to win the derby.

"He looked like he was coming back to his Florida form," Trotsek grinned delightedly of the Flamingo winner. "If he is, well, we'll be up in there."

Blacks, Mt. View In Baseball Wins

In games played Thursday afternoon in the Inter-High Baseball League, Victoria High Blacks defeated their schoolmates, the Golds, 7 to 3, while Mt. View knocked over Oak Bay by the same score.

In the five-inning game on the upper diamond at Macdonald Park, Black's Norm Forbes pitched a two-hitter but won easily with his mates scoring two runs in each of the first two innings, and adding three more in the third. Golds garnered their three runs in the first and second innings, getting the odd one in the first.

Mt. View made all their runs in the third inning, in their six-inning game. Oak Bay's big drive came in the fifth, when they scored their three runs.

LOUIS MAY BE FORCED BACK INTO ACTION

Charles Fails To Pass Physical For Second Time

NEW YORK (UP)—Many boxing men believed today that 36-year-old Joe Louis will be forced by circumstances to reclaim the world heavyweight title should Ezzard Charles fail to pass his final physical examination in August.

Charles, the National Boxing Association's champion, flunked his second heart examination within six weeks at Chicago yesterday. He was advised by the physicians to refrain from "strenuous exercise" for three months, and then submit to another N.B.A. examination.

The N.B.A. will continue to recognize Charles as champion until his August examination, but if he is rejected for action then the N.B.A. will have to vacate his title.

Abe J. Green, commissioner of the N.B.A., left little doubt about that last night when he said that the N.B.A.—while awaiting the August examination—would redouble its efforts to obtain an outstanding challenger in case Ezzard passes the test, "and to obtain outstanding contenders in case Charles must retire."

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

It will be horses and mint julep day down at Louisville tomorrow. Ocasional will be the 76th running of this continent's most colorful racing event—the Kentucky Derby. This year's "Run For The Roses" is notable in that Col. Matt Winn will be missing. Elected to succeed Winn on his death some months ago, Bill Corum, the New York newspaper man, will be in charge of the classic for the first time. Corum is the fellow who recently cracked: "I don't want to be a millionaire, I just want to live like one."

Could Be Two-Horse Struggle

If one can believe the experts (and they're often wrong), tomorrow's race will be between a little front-running red chestnut and a burly, rough and rugged bay who likes to roar up from behind. The first is Your Host, the California express, and the other Hill Prince, who might prove to be another Whirlaway when they hit the stretch at Churchill Downs. Then again it is possible that something else may come out of nowhere to thwart them both. Donerail, a 90 to 1 shot, proved it could happen back in 1913. That must have been a great day for the bookmakers.

In the opinion of many west coast horsemen, Your Host is the ranking representative to hit the derby field from these parts. They figure the colt with the four white feet, a racing oddity, stands a first-class chance to focus the racing spotlight on the Pacific Coast. One thing is certain, Your Host will have one of the world's greatest jockeys up on his back in the person of Johnny Longden. Your Host is a front runner in the Count Fleet tradition, a horse to Longden's liking. He goes out of the gate as if jet-propelled and, so far, just keeps on going. The cracked vertebrae which twists his neck "doesn't bother his legs," according to Longden.

Several Noteworthy Upsets

Derbies have been won strictly by accident. How else could you account for Carroll Bierman slipping Gallahadion through on the rail to nip Bimelech in 1940, for example? They're still trying to explain Bimelech's race that day for he bounced right back in the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes. Jet Pilot broke in front and stayed there in 1947, when Longden held On Trust off the pace. Faultiness stepped in a hole when about to take command near the wire and the plodding Phalanx just missed getting up to take it all. Jimmy Stout fell off Granville, a remarkable colt, leaving the gate in 1936. This could go on and on.

McCarthy Gave Himself Thumb

Some baseball oddities contributed by Hugh Fullerton. Contradicting the old theory that everything happens in Brooklyn, Boston Red Sox fans ask: "Did a manager ever thumb himself out of a game there?" Joe McCarthy did that and some say it's the scariest happening of the season so far. Seems Joe got the thumb while he was arguing with umpire Bill McKinley and left the park. McKinley later said he had only told McCarthy, "Go back and sit down."

Seems that Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 farm hand, was causing his New Orleans bosses concern by disappearing for long walks in the French quarter. A couple of them dropped into Paul's room and brought the conversation around to these jaunts. Pettit blushed, bulged out his cheek and produced a box of bubble gum. The French quarter attraction was a store that carried his favorite brand.

LATE MARKER WINS

Duncan's Goal Puts Esquimalt In Semis

Time was fast running its allotted course at Macdonald Park last night when Gordie Duncan sped down the field on a partial breakaway, beat his man to the ball and picked the lower left-hand corner of the net.

This effort by Duncan was the only successful sortie of the night in the Price Cup soccer game, between Esquimalt and Victoria West, and gave the dockyarders a 1 to 0 victory over the greenhorns. It came with less than two minutes remaining to be played.

By their slim triumph, which evens the score in cup football between the two clubs, Esquimalt moves into the semifinals of the cup's round, against Heaney's Canadian Legion will meet Duncan in the other semifinal. Victoria West had previously turned back Esquimalt in a Garrison Cup game.

The game was closely fought with both sides missing numerous chances to score despite the slippery going underfoot. One goal was called back. That was when Alex Whyte, left winger for Wests, put one behind Charlie Sadler in the Esquimalt net, but was ruled offside on the play.

Mickey Smith of the losers missed a penalty shot.

DOUBLE BILL

Tomorrow afternoon at Macdonald Park a doubleheader has been scheduled, starting at 2. Wests will meet Oak Bay in the curtain raiser, and Canadian Legion will tangle with Esquimalt in the final. Both matches are Jackson Cup semifinals.

REGINA PATS IN SURPRISING COMEBACK TO EXTEND SERIES

MONTREAL (BUP)—Regina Pats had proof they were "surprising" today after coming from behind to rout Montreal junior Canadiens 7 to 4 in the fourth game of their Memorial Cup hockey final series.

The Pats' victory with a three-goal rally in the third period last night dashed Canucks' hopes of taking the best-of-seven run four straight and left their edge at three games to one.

While westerners who dubbed Pats "surprising" along the play-off trail took on some stature, the visitors who trailed 4 to 1 up to the 12-minute mark of the second period evened the count before it ended and whammed in another three counters in the third.

Art Rose, with two markers, and Don Marshall, with a single and an assist, kept the Montrealers in business.

SCORES THREE GOALS

But they had nothing on Lorne Davis of Regina who rang the bell three times for his hometown, and crew-cropped Gordie Cowan who netted the fifth and winning counter off Eddie Litzen.

Hogan Fires 64 For His Best Round

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (UP)—Ben Hogan, the little "miracle man" of golf, trudged out for the second round of the $10,000 Greenbrier Open today with a two-stroke lead over the field.

While a large gallery of fans at this fashionable resort looked on in amazement, little Ben was a picture of consistency as he fashioned a six-under-par 64 in the first round yesterday. It was his best competitive round since his almost-fatal automobile crash last year.

Sammy Snead, the home pro at Greenbrier, and Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., tied for second with 66's while Chick Harbert shot a 67 for fourth.

NO SHORTAGE OF GOAL TALENT ON SHAMROCKS

Ferguson's Choice For Starting Job Lies Between Andrews, Long

One of the biggest headaches facing Shamrock coach Arnold Ferguson as the season's intercity box lacrosse opener with New Westminster Salmonbellies on May 10 draws near is the question of a goalkeeper for the Victoria club.

Reason for the aspirin isn't the fact that there is no one capable of filling the position. In fact the opposite is true.

Ferguson has two men from which to choose and both are rated on a par as to their net-minding ability.

One of the candidates is Big Bill Andrews. The other is Warren John Long, better known about town as "Buzz."

HAS EXPERIENCE

Insiders give the nod to Andrews, already a veteran of intercity competition and the more experienced of the two, in addition to being the daddy of the team, Bill is also the his burly teammate, Long is regarded by many as one of the steadiest goalkeepers to perform here in many a season.

He reached his peak performance during the 1946 and 1947 seasons when a member of the Canadian Legion senior B club. Long was the goalie on that squad which swept its way to two successful provincial senior B championships. During the past two years he has guarded the nets for the Tillamook team, also coached by Ferguson.

Though this is not the only problem faced by Ferguson it is one that will cause him no end of worry.

The club works out again tonight at the Stevenson Park box and will conclude its pre-season grind at the Memorial Arena Tuesday, the night before the league opener. Ferguson is expected to name his starting squad at that time.

Commons Speeds Bills Embodying Tax Changes

Members Discuss Legislation To Give Allowances To British War Veterans

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament knuckled down to business Thursday.

Much of the day was spent discussing budget matters. Then the House spent some time approving a few bills and finished with a discussion on legislation to grant veterans' allowances to British Imperials.

Members from all sides of the Commons appealed to Veterans' Minister Gregg to extend the provisions to widows of Imperial veterans. The minister said this could not be done, that it would create "inequities."

The appeals were made during consideration of a resolution prior to an enabling bill, later introduced and given first reading. A fuller discussion of the subject is expected possibly later in the week.

Most of the time was taken up with resolutions to bill giving legislative effect to tax changes forecast in the March 28 budget. After close questioning of James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, who piloted them through these were finally approved and the necessary bills introduced and given first reading.

Ross Thatcher (C.C.F.-Moose Jaw) pressed for a statement on whether the government planned

Magistrate Thomas To Preside At Trial Of Officer

Magistrate A. I. Thomas will preside in Saanich police court in the dangerous driving trial of Sgt. Thomas Stevenson, city policeman. Trial will open next Thursday afternoon, court was informed yesterday.

Charge against Stevenson arose from an accident he was involved in on Shebourne Street October 24 in which a small boy was badly injured. Magistrate H. C. Hall dismissed the charge of careless driving against him this year.

Efforts to appeal the judgment were interfered with when Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane ruled that Section 57 of the Motor Vehicle Act, as it read at the time the charge was laid, ultra vires. The Criminal Code charge followed.

Taxing Of Capital Gains Seen Hitting Investment

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fear of the federal government's taxation policy on capital gains has slowed investment buying in Canada, it was reported today in business circles.

Taxation authorities find a tendency to tax profits on certain transactions as capital gains, causing, it is claimed, slowness in the flow of risk capital.

Government officials are following tax laws to the letter, but it is reported the present act is not definite in showing the boundaries of income itself.

"Under the new law and by recent decisions of the courts, we are seeing what we used to consider—capital—gains—taxed under the guise of income," H. Howard Stikeman told a meeting of businessmen here.

Mr. Stikeman is a Canadian member of the International Association of Public Finance and Fiscal Law. He is the author of a number of authoritative books on taxation.

He says it now is technically possible to tax all stock market trades where it can be established the shares were purchased with the intention they should be sold for a profit in a business way rather than held for an investment.

Finance Minister Abbott denied such an intention in his budget speech, but Mr. Stikeman said: "Business and professional men alike are left to determine whether a transaction gives rise to taxable income or not as best they can."

"The whole taxation structure is so complex that accountant and lawyer now have to conduct preventive tax practices. He must so advise his client in advance of any transaction that the tax danger is minimized wherever legally possible under the law."

He said the uncertainty is a result of defective draftsmanship or lack of foresight on the part of legislators.

WASHINGTON FISHERMEN ASK BAN ON IMPORTS OF SEAFOODS

ABERDEEN, Wash. (AP)—A work stoppage by the entire Grays Harbor fishing industry is planned May 15 to protest the importation of foreign sea foods, it was disclosed.

Fishermen, shore workers, cannery operators and residents of the Westport community will participate. They plan a parade of the entire fishing fleet into the upper harbor and a rally later at the Twin Harbors State Park near Westport.

Fishing interests contend the imports are damaging to the domestic industry.

DISTANT STAR

The STORY: Falling in love had not been Clemency Norton's idea when she became nursery governess to Baba, small daughter of Syrie and John Amberley. But little time passed before Clemency realizes that she has lost her heart irrevocably to Piers Amberley, Jon's brother. Syrie, despising her weak husband and in love with Piers herself, had warned Clemency against seeing too much of Piers. One evening Syrie finds they have gone for a moonlight ride together. When Clemency returns, tempers flare and Syrie makes ugly insinuations. Later Piers finds Clemency in the garden and takes her into his arms.

INSTALLMENT 23

The thin crescent of the moon, newly risen, looked through the clouds overhead as Piers Amberley kissed Clemency's soft hair. "Sweetheart, we must go in," he said. "Tomorrow we'll talk about what we're going to do. I want you to marry me as quickly as it can possibly be arranged."

Once or twice before Clemency had been on the brink of imagining herself in love. But the real thing that crept up on her quietly and unsuspectingly.

"And like the panther's feet the feet of love."

Those lines slipped through her mind. This was no romantic moment. It was something that would last forever.

FUTURE HERS

And so how could anything else possibly matter? thought Clemency. The future was hers, and—Piers loved her.

They had reached the porch as the first drops of rain fell, and already as Piers shut the door it had become a deluge with behind the bright long spear of it, the mutter of thunder.

There was no sign of anybody in the hall, or on the landing above. At the foot of the stairs he caught her in a final, swift embrace.

"Good night, my own." She ran upstairs and turned to wave to him and throw him a last kiss.

As Piers crossed to his own sanctum and shut himself in, Syrie came out of the salon.

She had remained there ever since Piers had left her to go in search of Clemency. She had heard them come in together, seen their good night.

When she climbed the stairs a few minutes later, her teeth were pressed down so hard on her underlip that a spot of blood sprang. Piers had not seen her—but he would have been more at peace if he could have forgotten her existence, rid himself of the consciousness of her, here in his house.

Flinging himself into a chair he filled a pipe, but it remained in his hand unlit.

What a fool he had been, he told himself. And now these two and the child were here. Why had he not found another way for Jon? Jon must always have been his responsibility, but Syrie—

HATED BY JON

He could have brought Jon alone, but he had been so determined that she should pay a little of what she owed. The result was that Jon hated him; and those two hated each other more than they would have done otherwise.

And now he had to think of Clemency, and keep her free of it all. Remembering the sweet, unafraid surrender of her in his arms, his heart leapt. His love, to whom all his life belonged.

Just as Clemency and Baba were finishing breakfast the next morning Loulie came in to tell her that the Sidi Amberley wished her to go down to him.

"Come, too! Baba started to scramble off her chair, but Loulie laid a restraining hand on her.

"No, my flower. Just Miss Norton."

"I shan't be long, darling," promised Clemency. "Then I will take you to say good morning to Uncle Piers."

"All right," agreed Baba amiably.

Clemency was aware of Loulie's curious eyes and, as she went out of the room, wondered how much missed the servant's quarters. She had awakened quite sure that she must have dreamed last night; but the dream seemed to be holding, and as she ran downstairs her heart was dancing.

The rain had ceased, and the signs were banished already under the sun's rays. As Clemency reached the hall a man came in through the door which stood open to the brilliant morning.

She paused involuntarily with a sudden pang of dismay.

"Good morning," said Jon Amberley.

BLACK SHADOW

So he was back from wherever he had been. Somehow in that moment when filled with hope and love she was going to Piers, the sight of Jon seemed like a black shadow.

"Good morning," she answered. "Do you happen to know if my wife is back?" he asked.

"Yes. She returned last night."

"Ah! I am sure she will forgive a late welcome."

There was something in the tone of the remark which made Clemency feel it did not need a reply.

Making way for Jon to go upstairs, she turned towards the breakfast room, which was situated towards the back of the square hall. She had almost reached it when Piers came out, and seeing Clemency took a quick step in her direction.

"Hello, darling—I was just coming to look for you," he said. "I thought that we—"

He broke off, catching sight of his brother who, instead of going straight upstairs, had followed Clemency. Their eyes met over her head, and Jon's brows went up.

ANNOUNCEMENT

"Oh, you're back, Jon," said Piers coolly. He had taken Clemency's hand and was holding it in his, now he put an arm about her shoulders. "Back in time to congratulate me," he said. "Clemency and I are going to be married."

"What?" The question came from above with the sharpness of a revolver shot, and the three in the hall below looked up to see Syrie standing at the top of the stairs.

Lions Club Holds Special Ceremony

Although Friday is generally known as the Lions Club's day to "roar" in Victoria, club members and their wives were the principals at a three-fold celebration at the Chez Marcel, Colwood, Wednesday night.

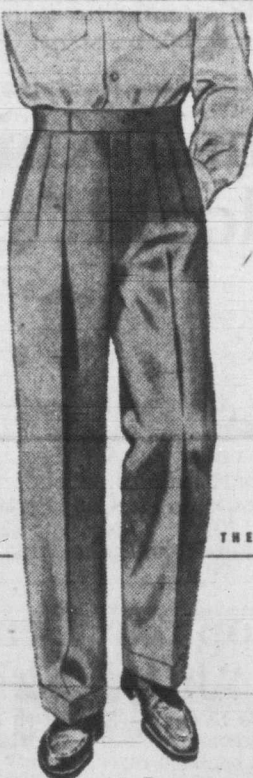

Members of the service club sat through charter night, induction and initiation ceremonies all in one evening.

Zone chairman John Priestley and past zone chairman Jack Fuller presided over the charter night commemorative ceremonies. Rev. George Biddle, club padre, conducted the inductions.

Thirteen new members were inducted into the club. They included: David Angus, Walter Ebdon, Ernest Hackett, Jules Menard, Robert Patrick, Arnold Seaborn, Walter Jeanes, Douglas Collis, Nelson Foster, Glyn Jones, Newell Morrison, Clifford Rae and Charles Watson.

Wives of the new members were introduced by Mrs. E. A. Estlin, wife of the club president. A dance followed.

Veterans Find It Hard To Realize Second War Ended Five Years Ago

By ROY THORSEN

Time does fly! Ask the average fellow who was "over there" dodging what Jerry was dishing out in the way of lethal parcels in the last show.

They'll tell you it only seems like yesterday that the war ended to allow them to return to "civvy street" and resume, if possible, where they left off... and yet five years have winged by.

Monday will be the 5th anniversary of the postwar period... a period that has seen a vast majority of the civilian wartime army back in a more-or-less normal routine of life... but still very vivid are the memories—good, bad and downright horrible—of those "biggest years of our lives."

In the heart of every one of those veterans who broke away from the civvy harness for the emergency is the ardent wish things will not develop into another eruption to necessitate again the call to arms.

(A glance at the turmoil of today, however, looks ominous to the newspaper readers and radio listeners, especially in the stories that are of the Americanized version.)

WIDENED BY TRAVEL

It is true that most of us have settled back into the old groove again, maybe a lot better off and more far-seeing as a result of wartime travels.

A lot of veterans have returned to the old job. Others are braving the tough competition of big money by branching out on their own in the business world. Many more have established themselves in a new line as a wage-earner and there are those who have gone in for higher education to enter the professional and specialist fields.

But there are some who will never be able to go back to the old school or establish themselves in business.

You'll find these in the veterans' hospitals from coast to coast, including the Victoria Veterans' Hospital on Richmond Avenue.

BUT STILL TRYING

Some have terrible physical handicaps which will require them to exist on pension for the remainder of their lives. Others have less crippling handicaps which, while probably not allowing them to return with the vim and vigor of prewar, nevertheless leave them with sufficient physical faculties—combined with initiative—to make the grade in Civvy Street.

This was the week five years ago when the boys were "sitting it out" waiting for the word the Nazis were finally "kaput" with the signing of the peace.

The official word came on the 8th day of May... and a highly entertaining novel could be written on the variety in types of celebrations to mark the great day that took place in the ranks of the overseas Canadian army, air force and navy from England, across Continental Europe and into the heart of Germany.

TO ANOTHER FRONT

The total fight, however, was not yet won. There were still the Japanese hordes to contend with. Many thousands of battle-hardened Canucks who saw action on the Italy and Northwest Europe fronts again signed on the dotted line to have a go at the Nips.

It was a nice feeling to know it wouldn't be long before rehabilitation and the prospect of seeing home again... but there was genuine sorrow in the hearts of many whose battlefield pals would not be able to make that homeward journey so often talked about.

Their remains lie in graveyards in Sicily, Italy, England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany—the servicemen who gave their all in the fight, the soldiers who are honored by all Canadians, Nov. 11, the Day of Remembrance.

UNCLE RAY

A queer-looking black bear lives in India. It is known as the sloth bear, and is different in several ways from the black bear of North America. For one thing, it has larger, heavier claws.

Those claws are used for digging, and are slapped against hard ground almost as if they were pickaxes.

The sloth bear is not a close relative of the sloth. It was given the mistaken name because of a mistake made when the first specimen was taken to Great Britain. That bear was without incisor teeth, and it was thought to look something like a huge sloth. This led to the name of "sloth bear."

Actually a sloth bear does grow incisor teeth. For some reason, however, the teeth are likely to become loose and fall out before the animal is very old. Other names, such as "jungle bear" and "hipped bear" have been suggested for the bear, but the name of "sloth bear" has clung to it.

Sloth bears are about five feet in length when full-grown. They have long, shaggy hair.

They are able to climb, and often reach the homes of wild bees which live in tree hollows. Like most other bears, they enjoy honey.

They also eat fruit, and have been watched while they shook branches and made the fruit fall to the ground. It may be, however, that the shaking was an accident. Sloth bears go into trees to look for the nests of birds, and shake limbs while doing so. They have the bad habit of eating the eggs of birds, also the young.

Turning over large stones, they sometimes find and eat the young of beetles. They also dig into the nests of ants and termites.

When it is moving about, a sloth bear shuffles or gallops. It is likely to run away from a man, but may turn on him if it is wounded. A mother sloth bear will defend her young as fiercely as will a black bear.

Although they are without long, sharp teeth, sloth bears are dangerous enemies. They can strike deadly blows with their heavy claws. Many natives of India are wounded by these animals each year, and some of the wounds lead to death.

DON'T LET THIS "merrie, merrie month of May" business go to your head. You'll probably wind up with hay fever if you do—that or a loud cry for liniment. May isn't all she's cracked up to be. She got her reputation way back after the Middle Ages, when some smart press agent sold the "merrie, merrie" line to a bunch of poets whose stuff on hard winter was wearing thin with the listening public.

May, that winsome damsel of a month, the youthful creature with the flowing robes and the windblown locks, isn't quite the demure maid they've tried to make her. She's young and she's glamorous, and her background music is bird song. She's surrounded with flowers and sweet perfume. But May, sweet girl that she seems to be, has a kick like a Missouri mule. When she stretches out her left hand in benediction, watch her other. It's cocked for a roundhouse right that can lay you stiffer than a herring on ice.

CREATURE OF bland deception, May encourages you with a couple of warm days. This, you say, is the time to do winter's "longs" and don summer's lightweights. Even my cautious friend from Newfoundland makes the switch-over on the "Twenty-Fourth" rain or shine. Then the gay deceiver slips you a climatic Mickey Finn. You're on your back in bed, coughing, or sniffing around the office. Don't take my word for it. Just remember what happened to the little girl who wanted mother to call her early, call her early, Mother Dear.

May tricks you with the bright shimmer of sunlight on water. That's pneumonia bait for the hardy "first of the season" swimmers. They put on their trunks and bathing suits, dive in, shout, "Gee, it's s-s-s-w-e-e-e-ll," climb out, rush for their clothes and buy Buckleys the next day. Grandma used to say that those who swam in May would soon be laid in clay. Grandma was a bit pessimistic.

WHEN YOU GROW older you let the youngsters break the ice at the swimming hole. You praise them, too, for their hardihood, if they're not your own children. You watch them plunge in and then you give a nasty little snicker that means they'll find out about swimming too early.

But don't think age is going to save you from the perfidy of May. Not a bit of it. After a late April, you rush into the garden and dig twice as hard to catch up. You wind up face down on the bed with your wife applying rubbing embrocation.

MAYBE you avoid such foolishness, but you still can't escape. May is the season of school sports. The youngsters haven't been doing so well in their races, so you decide to do something about it—a little coaching, a few demonstrations.

The kids run like crazy, but they don't get over the ground fast enough. You study them. No style. Their arms flail around like windmill vanes. Their feet fly about like a pinwheel taking off. You explain that the thing to do is to run in a straight line—aim all your effort at the finish, keep the feet, the legs and arms working like pistons driving in the same direction. You explain body lean and rhythm to them. That's where you should stop. Keep your instruction vocal. But do you? No. You have to get out and show them. That's where you make your mistake and the "merrie, merrie month of May" links forces with age to smite you down.

EVEN IF YOU never could start a race properly, you crouch down, take your mark, ready, and go. The crack that explodes in the May air isn't a starting pistol. That was just a ligament you'd forgotten about. You've had it, but humiliation piles on agony. While you're trying to hobble about with one useless leg, the children, all admiration, are calling to you to "show us again, daddy."

May is baseball season, too. Your youngster wants to warm up, and he gives you the old routine about coming out into the back yard to pitch a few. That's a father's duty. So you pitch a few, carefully at first. The old arm seems okay.

YOU TELL THE boy you're going to smoke a couple in. The wind-up feels good, the arm whirls down and the ball speeds away. It's only an optical illusion if you think the arm left you and followed the ball. It's still hanging by your side, but you might as well throw it away for all the good it's going to do for the next two or three days. That's May for you, that merrie, merrie month. Phooey. Better remember the immortal words of a certain Mr. Jacobs, "You shoulda stood in bed."

Accidental Death Ruled At Inquest

Coroner's Jury Brings Finding Following Automobile Accident

Following lengthy deliberation, a verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury today at the inquest on 77-year-old George Walter Powley held at Thomson's Funeral Home.

The late Mr. Powley died in hospital Tuesday without regaining consciousness as a result of injuries suffered Sunday afternoon when knocked down by an automobile driven by Mrs. Lily Sam, 646 Bay Street at Quadra and Balmoral Streets.

According to evidence by Dr. Andrew N. Reid, the victim received a broken neck as a result of the accident.

The last of eight witnesses to be called to the stand, Mrs. Sam, driver of the vehicle, and holder of a learner's license, said she was proceeding north on Quadra with the intention of making a left-hand turn onto Balmoral.

She had almost stopped before commencing to turn, and on finding the road clear of traffic, began to make a left turn.

She saw the pedestrian stepping off the curb crossing over Balmoral Street and planned to cross in front of the victim believing she had plenty of time to do so.

Half-way around the corner, however, she suddenly saw him directly in front of her.

"We were both frightened," she noted. "Then I lost control."

According to Victoria Chong, 949 Meares Street, passenger in the car, Mrs. Sam was traveling at approximately five miles an hour.

Another witness, Mrs. Gladys Vincent, 854 Pembroke Street, said Mr. Powley had been in excellent health, but used a hearing-aid which he did not find too satisfactory.

Guilty Verdict In Sales Tax Charge

Frank Wakeham, bankrupt used car dealer, was found guilty by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today on one of six charges of contravening provisions of the B.C. Social Security and Municipal Sales Tax Act.

Case was remanded to next Tuesday for trial over the other five charges. Counsel H. K. Bate has entered a plea of not guilty to each charge. Sentence on the conviction was stood over.

In the charge on which Wakeham was found guilty it was shown he received $10.75 in sales tax for the sale of a car last Nov. 20 but did not remit the tax to the commissioner within the prescribed time.

Victorians who will represent the various Legion branches are: Robert Knight and J. H. Van Slyke, of the Britannia Branch; Harold Lees, Walter Fish, Carl Falias and Clem Gill, of the Pro Patria Branch; Joseph Wittcomb, of Naval Veterans, and Aubrey Jones, Esquimalt Branch.

Out of town men include Leslie Martin, Saanich Peninsula Branch and James E. Moore, Duncan Branch.

The four-day affair is in honor of the Legion's silver anniversary.

Clues to the whereabouts of the discs were printed in the official celebrations program. There was just one stipulation. The contest, according to the program, was not to start until midnight Thursday night.

It appears, however, that long before midnight some enterprising youngsters of the municipality followed the clues provided by the program and came upon the hidden discs.

This was reported to Esquimalt police at 10.30 Thursday night after another band of youngsters tried the same thing only to find they had been scooped. The latecomers, in view of the fact they didn't get even one disc, decided it wasn't fair, after all, to jump the gun, so passed on their knowledge to police.

Councillor John Carey, chairman of the committee, was quite concerned over the matter. He said he would recommend to other committee members that the $40 prize money be withheld and the contest be called off.

TIMELY ARRIVAL here next week will be that of Mrs. Agnes Newton Keith. Movie of her experiences in Japanese prison camp during war, "Three Came Home" is currently showing at Odeon Theatre. Trip To City's Gardens Won By Olympia Couple

When Mrs. R. M. Musser of Olympia, Wash., entered Norvell Gillespie's essay contest, sponsored on his program "Garden Guide," a Mutual-Don Lee Network release she didn't dream she would be the winner.

The grand prize, a free trip to Victoria's Spring Garden Festival, given by Trans-Canada Air Lines, was awarded to both her and her husband for their essay on "My Favorite Flower." Mrs. Musser's essay was picked from 4,200 entered from B.C. to California.

The Mussers arrived here Wednesday and will leave Saturday morning. They have been entertained here by Mrs. Robert Hetherington, their hosts while in this city. They have been taken on tours of Victoria gardens arranged by the Victoria Garden Festival committee. Friday morning they were taken on a tour of Butchart's Gardens.

"We're having a wonderful time. No! We don't mind the weather at all. It was just like this at home," Mr. Musser said.

However, just then the sun came from behind a cloud and the weather showed signs of clearing.

Out of town men include Leslie Martin, Saanich Peninsula Branch and James E. Moore, Duncan Branch.

The four-day affair is in honor of the Legion's silver anniversary.

Clues to the whereabouts of the discs were printed in the official celebrations program. There was just one stipulation. The contest, according to the program, was not to start until midnight Thursday night.

It appears, however, that long before midnight some enterprising youngsters of the municipality followed the clues provided by the program and came upon the hidden discs.

This was reported to Esquimalt police at 10.30 Thursday night after another band of youngsters tried the same thing only to find they had been scooped. The latecomers, in view of the fact they didn't get even one disc, decided it wasn't fair, after all, to jump the gun, so passed on their knowledge to police.

Councillor John Carey, chairman of the committee, was quite concerned over the matter. He said he would recommend to other committee members that the $40 prize money be withheld and the contest be called off.

Pat Bay Property Purchase Paves Way For Big Expansion

Mayhew Hopes To See Facilities For Largest Aircraft To Land

The federal government has purchased property at the south end of Patricia Bay airport which Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew is satisfied will be used ultimately for extension of the flying field.

Mr. Mayhew said here today he hopes to see the airport developed to the extent that the largest aircraft will be able to land on and take off from its runways.

"I can't say that extension of the runways will be undertaken soon, but I know property has been bought and I am satisfied the purchase was made to expand the flying facilities at some later date," the minister said.

The Pat Bay runways at present are not strong enough to take some of the larger aircraft which have been developed and the extension southward on ground in which solid foundations could be made would eliminate this weakness.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS

Mr. Mayhew said improvements to Victoria's Inner Harbor will be started this summer, probably.

Lock Up Lawbreakers, Says Mayhew, On Doukhobors

Answer to the Doukhobor problem in B.C. as given by Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew in Victoria today is: "Lock up every man and woman of the sect who is caught breaking the law, treat them as we do every other person behind bars, and look after their innocent dependants."

Mr. Mayhew does not favor another Piers Island system of confining Doukhobor offenders.

"I don't remember the details, but the plan was not a success as we now can see," he said.

He advocated arrests on a mass scale if necessary and said that once the lawbreakers had been taken into custody, it was the federal government's responsibility to look after them.

Herbert Laird, 1021 Government Street, was remanded to next Thursday for judgment on a careless driving charge by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court yesterday afternoon. Charge arose from an accident on East Saanich Road at Cordova Bay Road last month.

Nearly 125 damage was done when a car driven by Basil W. Rice, 1809 Crescent Road, collided with a lamp standard and broke it off at the base at Pandora Avenue and Quadra Street Thursday night, city police reported. The car was not damaged.

$250 CRASH DAMAGE

An estimated total of $250 damage was done to cars driven by Fred W. Collins, 420 Hillside Avenue, and William Duncan, 2551 Florence Street, when they met in collision Thursday evening at Fernwood Road and Pembroke Street, city police reported. No one was hurt.

When Hair Is Free Of Dust It Shines Like Sunbeams

By PENNY SAVER

Young brothers, 'tis true, are as subtle as sledgehammers when it comes to commenting on sisters' appearance, especially her hair styles. As a matter of fact, a friend of a friend of mine, who had been "hid up" in hospital for a few weeks, was greeted one bright sunny afternoon, following her recuperation from an appendectomy, with the word, "Hey, get a load of that rag mop!" Naturally, Miss Gunshot... as we'll call her... could have wrapped Junior around the nearest bedpost! Washing her hair was definitely taboo and of course her locks were beginning to get that "had an oil can drop on my head" look.

Keeping your hair clean is a constant menace at the best of times, because, as your hair gets oilier the dust seems to be naturally attracted. The average Mrs. and Miss Enjoys plunking her noggin into a warm foamy pan of water at least once a week, but in case the event of traveling or being confined to bed the going gets a wee bit rough. This is when dry hair shampoos are quite a help. You can take your choice of 10-cent packages right up to the larger shaker tins of dry shampoo at $1.25. This $1.25 deal features a deodorizing content, especially suitable for the mesdames who work in either smoky or potent-scented surroundings. It's easy to apply—and very effective. First off, get your self a piece of toweling, rub a small quantity of the powder on your hair and work from the scalp down to the tips of your hair. It eats up the oil like magic.

For ordinary shampooing you can have beautiful shining tresses by using either a shampoo or bar of soap. Shampoos containing coconut oil sell for as little as 29 cents up and bars of Castile, 2 for 19. If you prefer using the bar, please oil please, don't rub it on your head. Take time to lather it or simply rub the bar of soap on your hands to make a milky white lather then go at it full steam ahead!

With spring and summer days greeting you you'll be taking daily jaunts sans le bonnet and you'll want your hair looking particularly shiny and healthy. Rules for the foregoing are simple. Before washing your hair... or I should say at least once every day... brush it vigorously 'til your hair yells "uncle" then use either your preferred liquid, jelly or cream shampoo. Give the scalp a good rubbing with your fingers and after its been rinsed enough times to get all soap out, you'll tingle with cleanliness.

Just in case you're the gal with the very oily hair and consequently brush your hair only before washing it lest you have to wash it every three days, you might try brushing it with a cloth. Sounds daffy you say? Don't blame you, I thought so too, until a pretty blond clerk convinced me of its worth. Actually all you do is use either a piece of gauze or a very thin face cloth around the brush, pin it, then start brushing like mad. You know it works beautifully and the amount of oil you'll get rid of, is surprising.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: Every time I get a pretty maid I catch my husband kissing her. What can I do to stop it? C. L. M. Answer: I should think the best remedy for the situation would be to employ only old and homely maids. That probably wouldn't stop him from kissing pretty girls, but it would prevent your having to change servants so often.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It's a good idea, occasionally, to focus our attention upon the family and determine its importance and value in society.

When young persons marry they think principally of the fun of living together, of being independent of relatives and therefore able to do as they pleased.

But, along comes a baby, and then two or three and willy nilly they are a family and must establish attitudes and enforce ways of doing and thinking which are of value as members of a family.

Its first consideration, unquestionably, will be to preserve the life of its children. That means protection against danger, nutrition for bodies and sustenance for the spirit.

The mother who whipped her four-year-old, "whenever he needed it," until life left his beaten body, provided neither protection from her own uncontrolled temper nor love nor understanding. It is a tragedy when such individuals are given the gift of children.

The second consideration will be to teach children the ways of the world. What is good for all persons is not always what a child might deem desirable. His own desires loom large in childhood and he wants them gratified.

Teaching means discipline and discipline encompasses both guidance and punishment. Children have to learn to respect authority and to control their wilful ways.

But we don't guide the child except by showing him how to act and acting that way ourselves. And we don't punish him so brutally that he becomes antagonistic toward all authority and wants only to escape it, instead of being respectful of it.

Our leaflet No. 86 "How To Be A Good Parent," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Wedding

Members of two Victoria families were principals in a doubling wedding ceremony in Cornwallis, N.S., on April 24.

The bride is Marjorie Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Parker, 2644 Wark Street, and the groom is Richard Lloyd Bowden, son of Mrs. L. L. Bowden, 402 Bay Street.

Following a wedding trip in Nova Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. Bowden will make their home temporarily in Halifax.

Rev. W. R. Anthony officiated at the rites, for which the bride wore a blue-grey Glen check suit, grey felt hat with navy trim, and navy-toned accessories. A corsage bouquet of pink carnations adorned her suit lapel.

Mrs. R. Thornber, attired in a grey tulle with hat and accessories in harmonizing tones, was matron of honor, and Clarence Ladouceur was best man.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Thornber.

Tradesmen Work Behind Picket Line

Striking employees of Evans, Coleman & Johnson Bros. Ltd. turned out in force today to picket work being done by A.F.L.-affiliate carpenters and laborers on the Strathcona Hotel addition. All building tradesmen assigned to the job crossed the picket line but later two carpenters and one laborer walked off in sympathy with the pickets. George H. Wheaton, contractor for the job, promptly ordered the three be discharged.

Colorado Man New Owner Of Churchill Hotel

Purchase of the 90 room Churchill Hotel, 1140 Government Street, by Victor DeMerschman of Grand Junction, Colorado, was announced today.

Mr. DeMerschman and his wife, the former Beatrice Camossou, who graduated from St. Ann's Academy here, have been operating the hotel since May 1. They intend to spend the summer of each year in the city and return to their home in Grand Junction during the fall.

"I think this area of Vancouver Island and British Columbia has bright prospects for a large increase in population within the next few years," Mr. DeMerschman said.

He plans to add 15 extra bath-rooms to the fireproof hotel. Plans for remodeling and enlarging the hotel lobby also are under contract.

Power Saw Plant Has Fire Loss

VANCOUVER (CP)—A two-alarm fire caused an estimated $100,000 damage Thursday night to Industrial Engineering Ltd., largest manufacturer of power saws in Canada.

No one was injured. R. D. Noble, assistant manager, said he estimated the plant would be closed about a week.

The blaze, for which no cause has been determined yet, was confined to one corner of the building.

A 10-year-old school boy, Albert Broadfoot, turned in the alarm while walking past the plant.

12 Passengers On B.C.E.R. Bus Escape

VANCOUVER (CP)—Twelve passengers on a B.C.E.R. bus narrowly escaped death Thursday night when a fire truck crashed into the vehicle's rear, skidding it 50 yards.

None of the passengers were hospitalized.

Driver Johnny Stahk maneuvered his vehicle to a stop in a narrow lane.

Another 10 yards it would have crashed into a parked car and through the service station office where attendants were eating supper.

Senator Declares Cabinet Encroaches

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Thomas Reid (L.-British Columbia) said Thursday he was "alarmed" at the Senate's tendency to think along party lines and at the growing encroachments of the executive or cabinet in the parliamentary picture.

As a man who sat in the Commons 20 years, we contrasted the status of the member of that chamber now with that of two decades ago. He was "something then," Senator Reid said, "now he's becoming just a number."

U.S. Air Force Always On Alert

MCHORD AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—Col. T. Alan Bennett, new commander of the base here, said in an interview that U.S. air defenses of the Pacific Northwest have been doubled in the past month.

"We are flying here day and night; we are on the alert seven days a week and 24 hours a day. It is high time the residents of the northwest acquired a new confidence in the value of their real estate," he said.

Cordova Bay Club To Hold 'Klondike Night'

Construction of the Cordova Bay Community Club's new clubhouse is progressing at a good pace. It is the hope of officials that volunteer labor will turn out to complete the flooring of the hall so that the July 19 "Klondike Night" program can be held on it in the open air.

Senate Hears Canada's Envoys Too Numerous

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator A. C. Hardy (L.-Ontario) said Thursday that Dr. E. H. Coleman, Canada's minister to Cuba, is "bored to death because he has nothing to do." And, he said, he's not the only Canadian envoy in the same position.

Disrupting the calm of the Senate external affairs committee, the Brockville barrister and businessman said he didn't blame Dr. Coleman—former under-secretary of state—for that situation. In fact, he felt sorry for him.

The trouble arose, Senator Hardy snapped, from the fact that Canada's whole diplomatic service has "grown too rapidly and too large."

His statement emerged as Leon Mayrand, assistant under-secretary of the external affairs department, was being asked whether Canada couldn't do with consul-general in some capitals where she now maintains full diplomatic missions.

It was normal to exchange rank for rank, said Mr. Mayrand. Thus Cuba had a minister here, Canada a minister in Cuba.

Unless a country was on bad terms with another, it was unusual to reduce that rank.

From Senator L. A. David (L.-Quebec) came the retort that Canada's trouble "is that our international importance has outgrown our mentality... we're dazed at our position."

Said Senator J. W. deB. Farris (L.-British Columbia): "We're also stunned by our taxes."

B.C. Offers Aid To Manitoba

The B.C. government has offered help to Manitoba in the flood crisis.

Premier Byron Johnson telephoned Premier Douglas L. Campbell at Winnipeg to tell him B.C. is prepared to do everything possible to assist Red River Valley flood victims.

The offer was made while the coast province prepared to meet a flood threat in the Fraser Valley, where high water in 1948 took a heavy toll.

Emergency committees have been formed in the valley to prepare for any eventuality. The committees will survey evacuation plans, manpower available for flood work, and dike protective measures.

Actor Really Locked In Trunk

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Bill Knight, 15, got a bigger thrill out of play rehearsal at high school than the script called for.

In the play, Bill is smuggled into a women's dormitory in a trunk.

When he heard his cue all he could do was pound on the trunk. Somebody had shut the lid too hard. It was locked. Nobody had a key.

Other members of the amateur cast telephoned for—and got—an ambulance, a fire truck, a wrecker and a mechanic.

Bill was freed. "On with the show!" he shouted. But the cast called it a night.

Pacific Northwest Loggers Vote Strike Preparations

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The C.I.O. International Woodworkers of America disclosed that their 40,000-odd members have authorized a strike in the Pacific Northwest logging camps and lumber mills.

James E. Fadling, president of the union, said the rank-and-file voted "by a large majority" to authorize a strike not later than May 15.

The exact voting figures were not made public.

The union and employers are still negotiating.

The union is demanding six paid holidays, and a health and welfare plan including a $3,000 life insurance policy with double indemnity for accidental death or dismemberment; $40 a week sick benefits; employer-financed hospital and medical care.

Luxemburg Honors Canada's Ex-Premier

OTTAWA (CP)—Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King received the Grand Cross of Luxemburg for "great services" rendered to the tiny European duchy during the war.

The presentation was made by Hugues Le Gallais, Luxemburg Minister to Canada and the United States, in an investiture at Laurier House, Mr. King's residence.

Mayors To Meet In Saskatoon

MONTREAL (CP)—Dates for the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in Saskatoon are June 12-15, it was announced.

Mayor George C. MacLean of St. Boniface, Man., federation president, said housing, civil defence, unemployment relief and water conservation will be among matters discussed.

Tourists In 1950 May Set Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Inquiries sent to the Canadian Travel Bureau for tourist information indicate 1950 tourist traffic may break the record set in 1949.

Leo Dolan, director of the bureau, told the Senate committee on tourist traffic Thursday that inquiries to date are 19 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year.

He told the committee tourists spent an estimated $288,000,000 in Canada last year. Expenditures by Canadians in the United States was about $164,000,000.

U.S. Measure On Foreign Aid Before Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $3,372,450,000 foreign aid bill, prime target for economy-minded Congressmen, reached the voting stage in the Senate today. From opposing sides came these cautious predictions:

1. It might be cut by $250,000,000.

2. It might not be cut at all—certainly by no more than $250,000,000.

Senator Styles Bridges (R.-N.H.) said he was "pretty sure" of the $250,000,000 figure, adding: "A great many people believe that at least a $500,000,000 cut will be voted."

Chairman Tom Connally (D.-Tex.) of the Foreign Relations committee, who has guided the big bill through three weeks of dragging debate, said: "We have enough votes to prevent a cut—if they all show up."

Senator Wilson 'Mother Of Year'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has a Mother of the Year—a dark-haired woman with eight children and seven grandchildren who prefers the title of "Mrs." to "Senator."

She is Mrs. Norman Wilson of suburban Rockcliffe—better known as Senator Cairine Reay Wilson, one of the two women members of the Senate.

As Canada's first Mother of the Year, the 65-year-old Senator will receive a gold pin from the American Mothers' Committee in New York.

Comes Hollywood's Wedding Of Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor tomorrow will wed Conrad Nicholson (Nick) Hilton Jr., and heir to one of the world's biggest hotel fortunes.

It's Hollywood's wedding of the year.

Her wedding gown is described by its designer as simple, with a high neckline, narrow waist and billows below. The guest list numbers 600, but at least 10 times that many may tie up traffic outside.

It's the first marriage both for 18-year-old Elizabeth and her 23-year-old bridegroom.

Exhaust pipes and mufflers are up against the problem of hot corrosive gases. These parts are being made of Nickel alloys to reduce costs in the long run.

The gleaming grille and other parts of trucks and cars are Nickel-plated. Nickel has lasting beauty.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book, fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees in Canada and also help pay Canadian railwaymen, lumbermen, iron and steel workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.
